RUSSIANS CUT ODESSA ESCAPE ROUTE

RETURNS GIVE DEWEY BIG LEAD IN WISCONSIN

Willkie Runs Poor Fourth, Trailing Stassen and Gen. MacArthur.

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, April 5—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey swept ahead today toward a possible 18 of Wisconsin's 24 Republican national convention delegates in late returns from yesterday's presidential primary. Wendell Willkie ran last in a field of four, with indications he would not get a delegate.

Lt. Commander Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, was tied on the basis of the incomplete but representative returns with General Douglas MacArthur.

With 2,306 of the state's 3,076 precinct tabulated, here is the way the four Republican presidential prospects stood in number of victorious or apparently-victorious delegate candidates:

Dewey—15 pledged outright and three claimed.

MacArthur—3.

Stassen—3.

Willkie—None.

24 Delegates Named

Wisconsin elected 24 delegates to the Republican national convention, including four representing the state at large.

In a four-way race, the three Dewey candidates for delegate-at-large were far out in front, while 11 others held leads in the districts.

Two candidates pledged to Lt. Commander Stassen held wide leads in the Sixth district—where Willkie furnished the only opposition—and two others were leading in the Third and Tenth.

Two MacArthur-pledged candidates had leads in the First and Eighth. In addition, a MacArthur man was out in front by a comfortable margin for the fourth spot in the delegate-at-large contest.

Democrats Have 26

Rep. Howard J. McMurray and five other delegate-at-large candidates pledged to President Roosevelt, apparently won the six Democratic places. Whereas the Republicans have 24 delegates, four representing the state at large, the Democrats have 26, the extra two having been awarded by the party's national committee as a "bonus" after its 25,600-vote plurality for Roosevelt over Willkie four years ago.

Wisconsin delegates, though pledged, are not legally bound to vote for their man in the convention, even on the first ballot.

Willkie's poor showing was the big surprise. He had campaigned the state for 13 days, speaking in 35 cities, in a drive to erase the opposition he knew existed. He made the issue clear, declaring the result in liberal Wisconsin well might point the convention's course.

President Roosevelt's was the only name on the Democratic delegate candidate ballot.

OREGON FOR WILLKIE

By The Associated Press

SALEM, Ore., April 5—Oregon's 15 votes in the Republican national convention will go to Wendell Willkie and its 14 votes in the Democratic national convention to President Roosevelt. Willkie and Roosevelt won the pledges of the state's delegates by default as the Tuesday deadline passed with no other presidential candidates filed for the May 19 primary.

AGE TO DETERMINE FUTURE DRAFT CALLS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 5—Selective service resorted to an age-group system today to fill the high command's requisitions for fighting men.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, outlined the new formula in a broadcast last night. Men under 26 will be taken first. Then, with progressively less strict requirements, the 26-29 group will be summoned, followed by those over 30.

Hershey also promised that his organization will "aid to the limit of its ability" in seeing that 4-F's who refuse to stay on their wartime jobs are made to pull their weight in the nation's fight. There are indications, he said, that "by legislative or administrative action or by both, means will be found to insure that they do necessary work."

Hershey said local draft boards will be instructed to balance the need for food against the critical demand for military manpower in weighing farm deferments.

GOES TO PITTSBURGH

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 5—Governor Bricker said he would attend a dinner for Republican leaders in Pittsburgh tonight but did not plan an address.

Army Plane Used by Marion CAP Squadron

5 YOUTHS GET PRISON TERMS

Marion County Group Receive 1 to 15-Year Reformatory Sentences.

Five youths indicted by the Marion county grand jury last week were sentenced to from one to 15 years in the Mansfield reformatory when arraigned before Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young Monday afternoon.

They are Robert Coffman, charged with assault to rob; Don Swearingen, James Jackson, Joe Henderson, and Leonard Walker, charged with breaking and entering.

Sentence was reserved on Russell White, who pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering, and he was returned to the county jail. The five will be taken to the reformatory this week.

Coffman was charged with an attempt to rob Lloyd Fuller and Swearingen, Jackson and Henderson were taken into custody three weeks ago when city, county and state patrol authorities broke a crime wave that reached into several counties and cleared up a series of automobile thefts, burglaries, destruction of mail boxes and the burning of one automobile. Walker was charged with breaking into a grocery store.

No indictment was returned by the grand jury against Coffman's father, John Coffman, arrested by police with his son in connection with the theft of $1,260 from Fuller.

Plane Now at Marion Airport Also Serves Galion and Mansfield.

The Marion Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol, an Army Air Force auxiliary, is currently using an Army liaison plane known as type L-3B in conjunction with its work of training Air Corps Cadet candidates and members of the Aviation Cadet Enlisted Reserve.

The Marion Squadron of CAP shares the use of this plane with the Mansfield and Galion Squadrons. Familiarization flights will be given to Cadets and also to Air WAC candidates until April 9 when the L-3B will be transferred to one of the other squadrons.

The L-3B aircraft which is being piloted by CAP members is of a type used by the Army for artillery observation, inter-communication between ground units and other liaison purposes. It is fully equipped with a two-way radio, sturdily constructed and designed for landing on rough ground or small fields such as might be encountered in combat areas.

Part of Air Forces

The Civil Air Patrol, originally a branch of the Civilian Defense organizations, was by executive order converted to an auxiliary of the Army Air Forces April 28, 1943. Since that time the Marion Squadron has been active in recruiting and training Aviation Cadets, more than 100 having been accepted for enlistment. In addition to recruiting, the mental written tests are conducted by the squadron, those candidates successfully passing

Marion To Have State League Team with Hartley Manager

Club Organization Formed with Frank Wiedemann as President; Players' Tryouts To Start April 17.

Marion has a baseball club.

This announcement was made this morning, along with definite steps to start the season at Lincoln park on May 2 with an opening game with Lima. Marion will be one of six teams in the Ohio State league, a Class D circuit.

Uniforms and supplies have already been ordered. A baseball school and tryout camp for prospective players will be opened at Lincoln park on April 17.

Club manager and general manager of the Marion club will be Grover A. Hartley, former big league player and former manager of the Findlay team in the Ohio State league.

The Marion club will be operated, at least for the present, as an independent club with no connections with larger teams excepting the handling of optioned players.

Officers have already been chosen. They are headed by Frank Wiedemann, Marion attorney, as club president, and include Don Williamson, police prosecutor, as vice president and John Dowler as treasurer. Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen is acting secretary.

Newark Also In

Another important development today was the announcement that Newark, whose uncertainties about participating in the league were nearly as great as Marion's, is definitely going to play in the league. Final arrangements were made yesterday for Clay Bryant, former Cubs pitcher, to go to Newark as playing manager. The Marion and Newark developments assured the circuit of six teams.

Hartley, Joe Donnelly, league president, and E. R. Reilly, a sporting goods company representative, spent yesterday in Marion with local fans and announced that sufficient financial backing has been assured to justify announcement of definite plans. Although some stock selling is yet to be done, all reported satisfactory progress in their initial efforts yesterday. Reilly and Hartley were still in Marion today and planed to make further contacts.

The men making up the nucleus of the Marion group were in high spirits today, after several weeks of uncertainty in which it appeared likely on several occasions that Marion would not have a team.

Players Assured

Problems seemed to be largely solving themselves, with the number of applications already on hand assuring the nucleus of a playing organization of 16 and 17-year-olds plus a few older 4-F men. Marion will needs lights for the league will play night games, but it was expected this weekend would see final arrangements made to bring the lighting equip-

H. I. Phillips' Daily Column Starts on Editorial Page Today

H. I. Phillips, one of the country's most widely known humorists and columnists, today joined the group of writers whose articles will appear regularly in The Star. His daily column, "The Once Over," appears on the editorial page of The Star today for the first time.

His column will take the place of the Damon Runyon column which appeared regularly on the editorial page.

Mr. Phillips has been a newspaperman ever since he can remember. He began as a cub reporter on the New Haven Register in New Haven, Conn., his old home town. After trying his hand at various jobs, including that of a hotel bellhop, a department store bundle-boy, a candy wagon driver, a stock-taker in a hardware shop, a clerk in the stock room of a five-and-ten-cent store and an undertaker's assistant (the last of which was the turning point) he got a job at $8

BUCHAREST HIT HEAVY BLOW

U. S. Bomber Target Is Rail Yards Which Handle Nazi War Supplies.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, April 5—Strong formations of Flying Fortresses and Liberators, in their first attack on Bucharest yesterday, caused considerable damage to the railway yards, through which German supplies roll to the Russian front, and left one-third of the Rumanian capital covered with smoke, headquarters announced today.

46 Planes Shot Down

First reports indicated the gunners in the heavy bombers shot down 46 planes and pilots of the escorting Thunderbolts and Lightnings accounted for three more. Twelve allied planes were lost in theater which included raids against supply dumps, bridges, gun positions and bivouacs in the Italian battle area and sweeps against shipping off the Dalmatian coast.

(The Berlin radio asserted 44 planes were downed by German and Rumanian fighters during the Bucharest attack).

Bucharest was the third Balkan capital to feel the sting of American bombs within a week, Budapest having been hit Monday and Sofia earlier. Budapest also was hit by RAF bombs Monday night.

About 200 planes were reported encountered during the raid and one group put up desperate resistance, battling a Liberator formation for one hour and 20 minutes. Anti-aircraft fire was described as moderate.

Rail and River Point

A vast quantity of material passes through Bucharest from the south main trunk line. It also is an important storage point for oil from the nearby Ploesti fields. In addition much equipment shipped down the Danube by barge is taken ashore for shipment to the Russians front via Bucharest.

Information reaching here through non-military but reliable channels indicates the bombardments are adding to confusion and unrest already reported aging in the Balkans in the wake of Germany's latest strongarm moves.

THIRD SERVICE HELD AT MARION THEATER

Last Days of Christ's Life Is Subject of Speaker.

Following the last days, of Christ's life before His crucifixion, Dr. R. H. Miller of Manchester, Ind., noon-day Holy week speaker told of "Jesus' Day of Quiet Worship" today in the service at the Marion theater. Rev. E. M. Hertzler presided, Dr. Warren P. Behan read Scripture and offered prayer and the Eastside Mother-singers presented music. J. B. Ellis is song leader.

"Wednesday was Jesus' day of quiet worship," the speaker said. "There is no record of deeds done or words spoken on that day. It is, therefore, an appropriate memorial if we spend a few moments thinking of the help which may come to us through quiet worship.

"Worship breaks the spell of earthly cares and pleasures. These cares and pleasures are God-given, and within proper limits are wholesome and right. They become evils when they reach beyond those limits. They are meant to be the means of keeping our bodies strong, our spirits bright and our minds clear so that we can the better serve our Lord. But when they become our masters, taking the place of God, they become our destroyers. Earthly cares and pleasures will never master the man who, at stated intervals, once each day for 10 or 15 minutes, once each week for an hour, sets them aside in order to center his soul on God.

"Worship increases one's moral

JAPS RENEW DRIVE TOWARD INDIAN BASE

Pressure Increased All Along Front; Yanks and Chinese Advance in Burma.

By The Associated Press

After a brief lull in activity along the Assam front in northern India, advancing Japanese have increased their pressure in their drive toward Imphal, strong allied communications center.

Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters acknowledged that Japanese forces which had reached the highway leading northward from Imphal to Kohima had not yet been dislodged. However, allied rearguards continue to operate successfully along the road southward from Imphal to Tiddim.

Allied planes struck oil and power installations in southern Burma and strafed enemy troops in the India border area. On the Arakan front, far to the south along the bay of Bengal, allied troops heading toward the Japanese-held port of Akyab have occupied Alathangdaw, south of Maungdaw.

3,600 Japs Killed

Earlier allied headquarters had estimated 3,600 invaders have been killed and twice that number wounded in three weeks of fighting along a 200 mile front.

Elsewhere the Nipponese were not doing so well. The largest force of bombers ever assembled to hit the Japanese in the southwest Pacific Monday spent one hour and 13 minutes over three airdromes at Hollandia, New Guinea, and destroyed the last of a fleet of 288 bombers and fighters the Japanese had assembled for offensive blows against the allies pushing up from the south.

General Douglas MacArthur reported that every plane based on Hollandia last week when the attack on Palau in the western Carolines started, has been "demolished or irreparably damaged."

"Destruction of powerful Japanese fighter and bomber forces built up over a period of months at Hollandia," said Murlin Spencer, Associated Press war correspondent, "serves notice on the Japanese that their days in New Guinea are numbered."

Some 400 tons of bombs were dropped in the climaxing raid Monday, 275,000 rounds of ammunition were expended, 26 Nip interceptors were down and every runway on Hollandia's three fields were left unserviceable.

U. S. Fighter Plane Lost

The Americans lost one fighter plane.

Truk has been raided by American planes at least 12 times in six days.

Spencer Davis, Associated Press war correspondent writing from an advanced South Pacific headquarters, said the last reported raid, Sunday, was the heaviest and costliest landbased strike against the Japanese stronghold. He reported four Liberators failed to return, but the crew of one was rescued by a destroyer. He said between 40 and 80 fighters rose to oppose the Americans and that seven were shot down certainly and two probably. The raid

"Give Again" Is Final Plea in Red Cross Drive Crisis

Added Contributions from Those Who Have Already Given Called Only Hope for Marion Co. To Reach War Fund Goal.

Marion county Red Cross officials today directed an urgent appeal in their $56,000 war fund drive "to the persons who have already given."

Unless these same persons "give again," there is no way to raise the $5,419.51 needed to reach the goal, campaign officials declared.

The new appeal was put entirely on a voluntary basis. The Red Cross request is this:

"If you can possibly make an extra donation to the Red Cross War Fund, put your gift in an envelope and mail it to the Red Cross Headquarters, Marion, Ohio."

J. D. Torrance, campaign chairman, said today's urgent request for additional help was made only after a careful study of all possible sources of gifts had shown clearly that Marion county can not reach its goal in any other way. All money that the chapter has any reason to expect to come in has already been received, except for a few small amounts that will not make any sizeable dent in the $5,419.51 still needed.

Tried to Reach All

"Our campaign organization has done everything possible to carry the drive into every home in Marion county," Mr. Torrance said. "Everyone has been asked to give, but we still don't have our quota. That means we'll either have to get the extra money from the people who have already given, or see Marion county fall short—and no one wants that to happen."

Leaders emphasized the county is only about 10 per cent short of its goal.

They asked the former donors to give again as liberally as possible, but emphasized that any amount will be welcomed.

For Service Forces

The fact that money raised in this drive is going largely for direct work among the men and women of the armed forces was cited as an additional reason why Marion county, along with others, should make an unusual effort to reach its goal.

A sample of the vital work made possible by war fund donations is continuation of the blood plasma program, gathering blood and processing it so that the armed forces may have all that is needed to save lives of wounded fighters.

No 90 Per Cent In Battle

Mr. Torrance called the war fund drive "part of our home front battle," and added that "a 90 per cent job isn't good enough, for the same reason that a 90 per cent job on the battlefields isn't enough."

War Summary

RUSSIA—Soviet troops engage Germans in streets of Tarnopol, threatening destruction of remnants of 15 Nazi divisions. Russians open new drives on Lwow and Odessa on opposite ends of front.

BALKAN BOMBS — Bucharest rail yards, which handle heavy flow of Nazi war supplies, target of U. S. bombers in first raid on Rumanian capital.

PACIFIC—Japs renew pressure on Imphal in drive into India. Americans and Chinese advance in Burma. In other Pacific points Japs suffer heavily from air blows.

SITE FOR PROPOSED HOSPITAL PURCHASED

Cong. Smith and Sons Acquire Land South of City.

Congressman Frederick C. Smith of Marion announced today that he and his two sons have purchased a 40-acre tract immediately south of the Harding Memorial as the site for a proposed private hospital to be built and operated by them after the war.

The tract now has two houses on it, and it provides an 80-rod frontage on federal route 23. It extends southward to the crest of a knoll. It was acquired from the Kruner estate.

Congressman Smith and his sons are all physicians. One of the sons is Major Frederick G. Smith, now at Nichols hospital, Louisville, Ky., and the other is Lieut. Philip P. Smith, located in the European theater.

Germans Shell Hospital Area on Beachhead

By The Associated Press

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY ON THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD, April 5—German shells raked a densely-packed hospital area on this beachhead for a half-hour yesterday, but no one was killed or wounded thanks to dugout and sandbag defenses which now have made this area somewhat safer from all but direct hits.

Since the first shellings and the bombings of hospitals shortly after the invasion, ward tents have been torn down one by one while engineers dug out huge sections, sometimes down as far as eight feet. Then they piled dirt around the tents and sandbagged even above that.

NEW HOSPITAL WING OPENING APRIL 16

Public Inspection of Building and Ceremony Planned.

Sunday, April 16, has been set for the formal opening and public inspection of the new wing of the Marion City hospital.

Selection of a date and other matters pertaining to the use of the new wing were decided at a meeting of the hospital building committee, Mayor Harry L. Dowler and J. W. Holman of Columbus, representative of the Federal Works agency, yesterday afternoon in the mayor's office. Members of the committee are C. O. Brown, A. W. Kettle, W. E. Dorsey and Dr. E. L. Brady.

The public will be admitted for a tour of the new edition between the hours of 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. While no plans have been outlined there will be a brief formal dedication ceremony at 2 p. m., Mayor Dowler said today.

A part of the wing now is in use, including the operating rooms, kitchen and dining room. All of the furniture and equipment has been installed and the wing is rapidly being placed in shape for occupancy.

The new building houses the two major operating rooms, emergency and minor operating rooms, waiting room, nurses work room, lounge and locker rooms, doctors lounge and locker rooms, private rooms and wards.

Mr. Holman approved the plans for the opening of the wing. The board authorized the advertising for bids for the seeding and fertilizing of the grounds around the hospital.

GERMANS LOSE MAIN ROAD OF RETREAT WEST

200,000 Nazi and Rumanian Troops Pinned Against Black Sea.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 5 — Russian troops cut the Germans' overland railway from Odessa today by capturing the junction of Razdelnaya, 40 miles northwest of the beleaguered Black sea naval base.

Marshal Stalin announced the victory in a broadcast order of the day declaring Razdelnaya was "an important strong point in German defenses on the approaches to Odessa." He declared the coup cut "the main road of retreat to Rumania."

Some 200,000 German and Rumanian troops now are pinned against the Black sea in the Odessa littoral. The only escape route remaining to the Germans is a small ferry line across from Odessa to Ovidiopol.

Reds Battle Nazis in Tarnopol

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, April 5—Russian troops fought in the streets of Tarnopol for possession of that Nazi stronghold today as field dispatches declared the Red army had all but wiped out the remnants of 15 surrounded German divisions in the Skala pocket west of Kamenets Padolsk and had launched new blows at Lwow and Odessa at opposite ends of the far-flung front.

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's first army already is in possession of most of Tarnopol, a Soviet communique announced, and a dramatic struggle was being waged to oust the fiercely resisting German garrison. More than 3,000 Nazis were killed and 300 captured during the past three days, the bulletin added. The 10-day battle for possession of the city, a bastion guarding the approaches to Lwow, 70 miles farther west, apparently was reaching its climax.

City Surrounded

Zhukov's right wing, which bypassed Tarnopol after it was surrounded on March 26, was less than 50 miles from Lwow, the communique declared, and yesterday captured 30 towns and villages on its eastern approaches.

Meanwhile Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's third army smashed to within two miles of the last rail escape route for the mass of German troops caged in the Odessa area north of the Black sea. Driving down from the Northeast Red army troops swept up 50 towns and villages, including Bakolova, two miles east of Razdelnaya, control junction for rail lines leading into Rumania, the communique said.

(London dispatches estimated 200,000 Germans and Rumanians were pinned against the Black sea coast in Odessa and immediately north and west of the great German-held naval base.)

30 Towns Taken

Other Red army forces, driving on Kishinev, capital of Bessarabia, captured 30 localities on a 50-mile front, the communique announced, and were within 32 miles of the city at Dolbany. Osipovka, 35 miles north of Tiraspol, another important communications center, also fell to the Russian advance.

While there were no reports of further progress by Marshall Ivan S. Konev's second army in its drive inside Rumania toward Iasi,

Chaplin Relaxes After Jury Finds Him Not Guilty

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, April 5—Film comedian Charlie Chaplin relaxed today from a court ordeal which brought his acquittal on charges of Mann act violation, while red-haired Joan Barry, 24, his accuser, shrugged off the verdict with the comment:

"I hope he's happy. After all, I was just a witness."

Chaplin's fourth wife, Oona O'Neill, exclaimed exultantly:

"I'm so glad I can hardly speak. I knew he was innocent."

The 18-year-old Oona is expecting a child.

Chaplin, who will be 55 in a week, was adjudged innocent late yesterday by a federal court jury after deliberating 8 hours and 30 minutes. The trial, in which the government charged he transported Miss Barry, his former drama pupil, to New York and back for immoral purposes, began March 21.

The snowy-thatched actor-producer kept a firm rein on his emotions during the tedious trial, but came close to breaking at the

Dr. A. Rhu, Dean of Marion Doctors, Marks 95th Birthday

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Dr. A. Rhu, dean of the Marion county medical profession today is celebrating his 95th birthday by observing his customary office routine and recreation, reading and resting. There will be no celebration of the occasion, he said.

Believed to be the oldest practicing physician in Ohio, and certainly the oldest in this section of the state, Dr. Rhu has always been in the vanguard of his profession and has seen medicine and surgery make tremendous advances. His interest in the progress of his profession never wanes and it affords him great pleasure to read of the marked success crowning its accomplishments. Penicillin, the new sulfa drugs, blood plasma, all are "just wonderful," he says. One of the day's pleasures is following the progress of medicine and surgery in his medical publications.

3 Generations of Doctors

Like father like son is the rule prevailing in the family of Dr. Rhu. Practicing jointly with his son, Dr. Herman S. Rhu at 350 West Church street, he has a grandson, Dr. Norman Rhu, also now serving with the 9th Army base hospital unit in England.

Dr. Rhu has had four children, one as a musician and one a physician and surgeon, both deceased.

DR. A. RHU

Both of these Rhu interests in music began when he was eight years old and learned to play the organ. He continued in this field as a musician and instructor until he was 70 years old when he satis-

FARM GROUPS OFFER REPUBLICAN PLANKS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 5—The national council of farmer cooperatives urged the Republican party yesterday to offer a platform in the coming campaign promising to "return to government by law rather than executive order" and to eliminate "government competition" in economic production and distribution.

Appearing before the Republican farm advisory committee of five governors and four members of congress seeking advice on a farm plank, Clyde C. Edmonds, a director of the council, recommended also that postwar governmental agricultural policy be largely limited to farm support of prices to insure ample production.

"We oppose," Edmonds said, "subsidies in lieu of a fair price in the market place.

"We suggest a national policy for maintaining and strengthening the system of free enterprise, including the preservation of the right of the farmer to process and market his product and purchase his farm supplies through his own cooperative organization to the end that he may progress to a position of economic equality with labor and industry.

Other recommendations of the council included:

A return to state and local governmental units of those functions that can best be performed at those levels.

Return of the farm credit administration, now under the department of agriculture, to a status, "free from political domination with a program designed to bring the system under farmer ownership and control."

ANNOUNCE A NEW REPAIR SERVICE ON REFRIGERATORS, APPLIANCES, FURNITURE, UPHOLSTERING, ETC.
WE'LL HELP YOU "FIX IT UP-MAKE IT DO"
Our repair service has not been prompt due to war conditions, shortages of help and materials. We didn't like it that way but we couldn't help it. Now we feel that we have most of our problems solved. . . .
WE CAN GIVE YOU PROMPT AND EFFICIENT SERVICE ON ALL MAKES OF REFRIGERATORS, WASHERS, IRONS, RANGES, ETC.
— ALSO —
REPAIRING, REFINISHING, REMODELING OF FURNITURE OF ALL KINDS AND REUPHOLSTERING, SLIPCOVERING, PADDING, RESPRINGING, ETC., OF YOUR WORN DAVENPORTS AND CHAIRS.
(We regret that the shortage of radio tubes and radio parts makes radio service and repairing very doubtful.)
IF YOUR OLD THINGS CAN BE FIXED UP WE CAN DO IT REASONABLY, PROMPTLY AND WELL. PHONE 2282 or 2238.
BRING IT IN IF YOU CAN. . . . WE CAN DO A QUICKER JOB CHEAPER.
Most electrical jobs to be right should have several hours observation before the final OK. If we can handle the work in our shop we can run many jobs at one time. Our tools and instruments are at our finger tips. We do not waste gas, tires and manpower. We can serve more people and do better work at less cost to you. Drop it off on your way down town or hire some one to bring it in. We will call for and deliver if necessary.
REFRIGERATORS
In addition to being the authorized service agents for Frigidaire we can reoperate and repair any make of refrigerator. We can also make service checkups for oiling, cleaning, and efficiency of operation. Have your refrigerator checked now.
ELECTRIC APPLIANCES
We can give prompt service on your washer, gas or electric range, ironer, toaster, electric iron, vacuum sweeper and so forth. Please bring in the smaller appliances. Some parts are not available now but if they are we can fix them.
FURNITURE REPAIRING
We have equipped a complete shop for furniture repairing. If you have a table or chair that is wrecked we can make it like new. Also if you have any pieces which you want modernized we can suit you on that too.
REFINISHING and PAINTING
Perhaps you have a chest of drawers which you want enameled or an antique table or chair to be refinished. You may have had a cigaret burn on a table or a mar from heat or alcohol. If you have any thing that needs refinishing, painting, or lacquering we can make it look like new.
REUPHOLSTERING
Does the bottom of your davenport or chair sag or are the springs coming through? If so we can retie or reset the springs. Also, if you want a complete new reupholstering or slip covering job we are equipped to handle that for you. We can reshape the arms or legs to give them that modern look.

CONG. SMITH SPEAKS TO REPUBLICAN CLUB

...Bricker Prestige In-...ecased in Nation.

...man Frederick C. ... principal speaker at ...eeting of the Marion ...ng Republican club, ...ght. He discussed Gov...ner's candidacy for the presidential nomination and said that through the governor's fearless announcements of his policy on issues of the day, his stature in the national picture is steadily growing at the expense of other candidates.

Dr. Smith also discussed the national and international situation and warned his audience that a definite movement is afoot to "smear" the congress of the United States and to break down the functions of our democratic sovereignty into a sort of "international state," with only a 20 per cent voting power of the whole.

First nomination of the club's officers was held and the new slate will be elected at the next meeting on May 1.

Mrs. Lillian Connelly, Carl Lehner, Harry Cahill, Miss Marguerite Williamson, and Marion Hinklin were elected delegates to the Young Republican convention in Columbus on April 15-16. Mrs. Pauline Irvin, John V. Ruth, Walter Johnson, Melvin Cratty and Howard McCurdy were elected alternates.

Miss Norma and Miss Gloria Kehrwecker entertained with piano selections. Candidates for the various county offices were introduced and spoke briefly.

President Carl Lehner announced that a special meeting of the club has been called for April 17.

Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Mrs. Walter Bailey, William Kehrwecker and Harold Thomas.

ALLIES HIT JAPS 440 TIMES IN MARCH

By The Associated Press

ADVANCE SOUTH PACIFIC HEADQUARTERS, April 3—(Delayed)—A record of 440 air strikes were launched against enemy targets during March by Army, Navy, Marine and New Zealand air forces under Vice Adm. Aubrey W. Fitch while the Japanese staged a virtual aerial sit-down strike, a spokesman disclosed today.

Only six times during the month did the Nipponese take to the air in groups of 10 planes or more.

South Pacific air strikes against the enemy extended from less than one mile to mor ethan 2,000 miles with 4,360 tons of bombs dropping on 235 strikes.

The spokesman said March saw the aerial mopping up of Rabaul, New Britain, until all resistance ceased. A total of 130 Japanese planes were downed during March, against loss of 23 American planes in the South Pacific. Almost half the Japanese losses occurred over Truk on March 29 when 20 Liberators attacked that Caroline stronghold.

During the month the Japs lost 95 barges and small craft in the South Pacific area. By April 1, photographs showed, every enemy airstrip on New Britain and adjoining New Ireland and Bougainville was unserviceable.

Scientists Make New High Sugar Syrup from Apples

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

CLEVELAND, April 5—The U. S. department of agriculture today offered the country a new sweet, apple syrup, an amber liquid that is 65 per cent sugar.

The syrup-making starts with ordinary apple juice, and any kind of apple will do. Chemical processes remove all the apple flavors, odors and jelly-making ingredients. Remaining is a syrup with no flavor except its extreme sweetness.

The syrup was developed in the eastern regional research laboratory, at Philadelphia. It was announced to the American Chemical society by Doctors R. E. Buck, J. J. Willaman and H. H. Mottern.

The syrup comes in two forms, one for industry, with a slightly bitter after taste, and the other all sweet, for table use. The industrial syrup already is on the market.

Women soon may be using the apple syrup in their cosmetics. Industrially the syrup is a good control for moisture. It has uses in textile making, pharmaceuticals, cork-making and gasket paper.

Under the name of apple honey, about 5,000,000 pounds of the new syrup already has gone into cigarets. It keeps the smokes moist and substitutes for previous moisteners now converted into military uses.

The report said that out of America's annual apple crop of 150,000,000 bushels, about 20,000,000 goes to waste.

This waste would make 100,000,000 pounds of apple syrup.

Ohioans Listed Among German War Prisoners

Majority in Poll Favors More U. S. Pressure on Eire

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., April 5—A large majority of the American voters who have followed the note exchange between President Roosevelt and Eamon DeValera, Irish Free State head, would like to see this country take further steps to see the German and Japanese diplomatic representatives in Ireland are ousted.

A nation-wide checkup by the Institute reveals further that a majority of the first and second generation Irish-Americans throughout the country feel the same way, although the majority is somewhat smaller than is the case for all voters.

Confining the survey to the three out of every five in the voting population who say they have heard or read about the U. S. request that Axis representatives be removed from Eire to prevent the possibility of their using it as a listening post, field reporters for the Institute asked the following:

"Ireland has said that because she is neutral in this war she will not send the German and Japanese representatives home. Do you think the United States should do anything further about this?"

The results:

Think U. S. Should Do Something Further	66%
Think U. S. Should Do Nothing Further	30
No Opinion	4

JUDGE DECLINES EXPENSE RULING

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 5—Common Pleas Judge Joseph M. Clifford yesterday rejected an application of Charles Guernsey of Fostoria, Judge of the third district court of appeals, for a declaratory judgment that all traveling expenses Judge Guernsey received from the state were "proper and legal."

Judge Guernsey said he had received expenses from the state for lodging, meals and taxi fare for the time the appellate court was in session in Lima and asked for a declaratory judgment on the pleadings that the fees are proper.

In his ruling, Judge Clifford said:

"Since this cause fails to present antagonistic, interested parties, we are of the opinion that there is no controversy to warrant the granting of declaratory relief."

Judge Guernsey's action followed a series of suits totaling $400,000 against the estate of the late Judge Phil M. Crow of Kenton, a member of the third district court of appeals for 32 years. One of the suits, filed by a Kenton taxpayer, sought $80,000 on the grounds that amount was collected by Judge Crow in excess expense accounts. A year ago when Judge Crow died he left a $700,000 estate.

Judge Guernsey filed an amended petition, renewing his request for a declaratory judgment on the pleadings. In the event certain expense items are found to be improper, the suit alleged, the jurist will pay the state the amount due.

The first handbill is believed to have been a papyrus, discovered at Thebes, which offered a reward for a runaway slave 3,000 years ago.

DEMANDS REPRIMAND IN ERROR SHOOTING

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 5—Senator Johnson, Democrat of Colorado, today demanded that a "severe reprimand" be administered the officer who withheld news last summer of the 400 paratroopers who were lost when confused American gunners turned their fire on 23 U. S. transports. The planes had flown within range in the wake of a flight of German aircraft.

Disclosing that most members of the senate military committee felt an investigation would serve no useful purpose, Johnson said:

"The worst part of it is the failure to report promptly when such tragedies occur. People ought to be told the bad news with the good, right when it happens."

His demand for a reprimand came only shortly after two other less serious but similar accidents were disclosed—the shooting down of an American transport by British fighters and the shelling of American landing boats by an American destroyer.

The first oil well in the United States was sunk in 1859 on Oil Creek, Pa.

DAILY WORKER BLAMES RED'S ACTION ON NAZIS

Soviet Official in New York Quits Post.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 5 — The Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, today called the reported resignation of Victor A. Kravchenko, self-styled member of the Russian purchasing commission, in protest against Russia's foreign policy an indication that Germany was "'scraping the barrel' of her political reserves."

The resignation of Kravchenko, who could not be located, was reported yesterday by the New York Times, which said in a Washington dispatch today that a Soviet embassy spokesman denied Kravchenko was chief of the metals section of the commission as he claimed. The embassy spokesman surmised he might have been employed as a clerk.

State department officials disclosed, the Times said, that Kravchenko entered the country seven months ago as an official of the Soviet government.

Commenting on Kravchenko's statement that "I can no longer support the double-faced political maneuvers directed at one and the same time toward collaboration with the United States and Britain while pursuing aims incompatible with such collaboration," the Daily Worker said was "a transparent and d... ling bit of treachery from ... one who calls himself an ... of a Soviet trading comm...

JURY WHICH ACQUITTED CHAPLIN. Here is the middle-aged jury of seven women and five men which acquitted Charlie Chaplin famous film comedian of the silent screen days, on white slave' charges. The jury, shown lunching before their verdict, deliberated six hours and 58 minutes (International) conclusion When it was announced the jury was coming in with a verdict, he placed his head in his hands.

CHAPLIN

He didn't look up when the jury foreman handed the verdict to Court Clerk Francis Cross.

"We find the defendant not guilty on count one," Cross read in a high-pitched voice Chaplin looked up and a wave of applause swept the crowded courtroom. Federal Judge J. F. T O'Connor rapped for order.

"We find the defendant not guilty on count two," Cross read. At this point Chaplin leaped to his feet and clasped the hand of his attorney, Jerry Giesler, veteran of the southern California law courts.

Later Chaplain, after submitting to a resounding series of back slaps," said.

"I believe in American justice I've had a very fair trial"

The other legal matters concerning Miss Berry still confront him. Next Tuesday he is scheduled to appear again in federal court, with six co-defendants, for a ruling on their demurrers to indictments charging conspiracy to deprive her of her civil rights If the demurrers are denied they will plead to the charges and a trial date will be set.

Chaplin also faces Miss Berry's civil suit alleging he is the father of her six-months-old daughter, Carol Ann.

Chaplin was accused of causing Joan's transportation to New York in October, 1942, for immoral purposes, and back to Hollywood with the same intent. The actor admitted supplying the tickets for the trip east, but denied any immoral acts were contemplated or consummated. He denied flatly he provided the funds for the return journey, which constituted the second count of the indictment.

In all vital points Miss Berry's testimony and that of Chaplin were in direct opposition

DR. RHU

fied a life ambition to become a doctor. Money earned as a musician financed his medical course

Believing that the body as well as the mind must be active in order to progress, Dr. Rhu does not neglect his routine of exercising. Some years ago he was written up in newspapers and magazines, when, at an age that most men were thinking of retirement, he learned to swim and was a regular patron of a gymnasium class at the Y. M. C A. While he does not take his exercises at the Y now, he does keep fit by doing them in his home.

Practiced Half Century

Dr. Rhu received his medical degree from Western Reserve in February of 1885 and began his practice of medicine here more than half a century ago His first offices were located where the Frank Bros. store now stands Since 1889 he has practiced with his son, Herman S Rhu. Both father and son received their degrees from Western Reserve, and it was from this school that the celebrant's grandson also was graduated.

Dr. Rhu has specialized in eye, ear, nose and throat practice and also is a general practicioner. He received a degree from the Chicago Ophthalmic college in 1887 and did post graduate work at Chicago and New York.

He was Marion's first member of the American College of Surgeons becoming a fellow in 1913 He is also a member of the American Medical association and before beginning to practice in Marion was elected professor of surgical pathology at the Ohio Medical university. He served several terms as president of the Marion Academy of Medicine and at one time was secretary of the Ohio State Medical society.

Operated Music School

Dr Rhu came to Marion shortly after the Civil war and for some time operated a music school here He taught music in public schools and colleges and from time to time "read" medicine with practicing physicians among them his father-in-law, Dr Robert L Sweney. He taught general music and in special branches at Lincoln (Ill.) university, a Covenant Presbyterian church school and until 1882 was professor of music at Beaver college near Pittsburgh, leaving there to go to Western Reserve university to study medicine.

For years he was associated with the American Association of Railway Surgeons and was a member of the Mississippi Valley Medical society. For a number of years he spent his summers as house physician in hotels in the Catskills and Adirondacks. He owns an extensive library and many of the books contain articles written by him.

Seneca Co. Native

Dr. Rhu was married in 1875 to Miss Helen S. Sweney who died 35 years ago Dr. Herman S. Rhu is their only child.

He is a native of Seneca county where he was born in Big Springs township on April 5, 1849. His father Conrad Sidney Rhu, was a native of France, coming to America about 1822, and his mother was Elizabeth Hellmuth, a native of Bavaria Dr. Rhu, his son and daughter-in-law, Dr and Mrs H S Rhu live at 545 Bellefontaine avenue. His grandchildren are Dr. Herman Rhu Jr. and Helen Louise Rhu a student at Boston university.

Amazing way to be Mentally ALERT ...Physically FIT!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach

2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

THESE two important steps may help you to overcome the discomforts or embarrassment of sour stomach, jerky nerves, loss of appetite, underweight, digestive complaints, weakness, poor complexion!

A person who is operating on only a 70 to 75% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 80% normal is severely handicapped.

So with ample stomach digestive juices PLUS RICH RED-BLOOD you should enjoy that sense of well-being which denotes physical fitness . . . mental alertness!

If you are subject to poor digestion or suspect deficient red-blood as the cause of your trouble, yet have no organic complication or focal infection, S.S.S. War on the Danube

ON the same day that the Danube is mentioned as the objective of Russian troops in Rumania, United States bombers carried out a heavy raid on Budapest. The connection is more than superficial.

With the Russians in control of the mouth of the Danube on the Black sea and shipping facilities in Budapest damaged by recurrent bombing raids, Germany would lose part of the use of southeastern Europe's most important waterway. The river is navigable for Black sea shipping more than 100 miles inward from its mouth. Barges ply the river beyond that point as it winds its way through Bucharest along the southern border of Rumania to Belgrade, capital of Yugoslavia, before turning northward to reach Budapest. At Budapest, it turns west to Vienna and its sources in Germany.

Russian plans for pressing an attack on Germany are unknown but, to the extent that all military tactics are dictated in large degree by geography, one logical line of approach would be up the valley of the Danube. It is, therefore, of more-than passing importance that Budapest has become a bombing target for the United States air force in Italy. The Russian ground forces are hundreds of miles away, but if their advance continues and is speeded, as it may be, by the disintegration of organized resistance in Rumania, the first joint operation of the United States and Russia might well occur somewhere on the picturesque reaches of the Danube.

An Important Difference

REPORTS of large-scale withdrawal of German troops from the Russian front to western invasion areas are credible, even though it may be doubted that the German general staff can afford to weaken the eastern front by wholesale transfers. This is not World war I, with Russia knocked out.

This is the identical military problem German strategists warned against after World war I, when they were planning Germany's next blood-letting—the fatal division of their armies. Hitler, himself, said in "Mein Kampf" that Russia never should be attacked while England was Germany's enemy, yet took the responsibility for disregarding his own advice, perhaps believing that England no longer was an effectual enemy and that the United States would not go to war.

Another passage in "Mein Kampf" is interesting to re-read at this juncture in the war. Hitler, describing the improved morale of German troops after Russia's collapse in World war I, told how Allied soldiers were affected by the realization that henceforth they would be fighting a stronger enemy—one that had conquered the Russians and now could give all its attention to conquering the Allies on the western front.

If the Allies had not broken Germany while it was bleeding in Russia, how could they expect to win victory from the "entire power of this uncanny state of heroes?" he wrote. Hitler believed, of course, that military defeat for the Allies was a certainty up to the moment of Germany's home front collapse—the now famous "stab in the back" theory.

Hitler hardly can forget that in 1944 the Allies are heartened for their forthcoming climactic effort by the fact that Germany's armies already have been beaten on the eastern front and are still engaged there. Instead of being disheartened by the seemingly impossible, they are heartened by the demonstration which started at Stalingrad and now is being continued as far west as Rumania—that the German soldier has been whipped once in World war II and can be whipped again.

—But One for All

THE minor political explosion that has blown the American Labor party in New York in two directions is getting careful attention, because this is the political outfit which has been keeping the Empire state safe for Democratic candidates. It swung the state's balance to Mr. Roosevelt in 1940 and has been a potent factor in the politics of the state and especially of New York City, greatest urban stronghold of the national Democratic party.

Barring some miracle, the American Labor party has ruined itself as a political entity. It has abandoned the "one for all doctrine" which is the key to political strength; Communist control of the organization has alienated more moderate leaders, and they are withdrawing their support. But two things about the schism have been neglected so far.

The first is the possibility the leaders may be unable to take their followers with them. The second is the virtual certainty that there will be no effect on the overwhelming support Mr. Roosevelt received in 1940 from the radical voters who have become so numerous in New York City that they control the state's electoral votes. Whether or not they vote as members of the American Labor party, the whole crowd, from the out-and-out Communists to the in-and-outers will go down the line for Mr. Roosevelt if he is running again next November. They may not be one for all any more, but with no other candidate appealing for their support, they will be all for one.

Knowledge is not knowledge until someone else knows that one knows.—Lucilius, 125 B. C.

News Behind the News

Hitler Believed To Have Drained Home Fighting Strength Trying To Halt Reds.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 5—Hitler has been forced to drain his home fighting strength further to throw reserves around both ends of the Carpathian mountains to meet the Russian juggernaut.

He has not yet taken troops from western Europe or Norway as rumored. No intelligent information exists here as to the size of the reserves, but they are mostly poor troops, some even administrative soldiers from Czechoslovakia and Germany.

He has about seven or eight divisions in Normany, but it would be disastrous for him to call them out especially from the southern half. There we could pick up airfields and ship bases which would bring us nearer to Berlin and enable us to engage in closer shuttle bombing of that harassed capital. Nor can he weaken his strength in France and the lowlands with invasion openly imminent and advertised.

Near Bottom of Barrel

So he has dug from the same sources he drew upon earlier to maintain an Italian front and to meet the closing Yugoslavian insurrectionists. His home store of fighting manpower therefore, must now be just about at bottom.

This situation has encouraged reports that Hitler has sought or will seek a peace with Russia, giving Stalin anything he wants aside from native German territory.

There is no likelihood however that Stalin ever will accept anything allowing German to continue as a fighting force. The Russians personally have suffered from the war much more than we have. The popular demand in Russia is for revenge, and conquest, not peace.

Yet the surging Red successes, grand and continuous as they are, still afford no ground for prophesy of a time of German surrender. The Red drive, no doubt, will take Odessa shortly, may then jam its way on across the formidable mouths of the Dneister, Prut, and eventually Danube rivers, toward Bucharest, capital of Rumania, as an ultimate objective.

Rumania Campaign

A big fight for the plains of Rumania no doubt now is being organized, but beyond these reasonably possible successes, the Reds will encounter only six or seven Carapathian mountain passes. Whether these can be forced is doubtful, as is therefore the whole final Rumanian campaign.

If the Reds prefer to strike straight into Germany (and they will), they first must clean up their central front, particularly around Vitebsk. The greater spring fight therefore, probably will come on the plains of Poland.

Mediterranean Delays

Soft or indirect criticism of the high British and American command in the Mediterranean is now reaching various degrees of print, following our lack of success at Cassino and the Anzio beachhead.

Undeniably, our initially-planned hopes have been frustrated. The question of who is to be blame will long be discussed.

Yet the basic reason is that an even higher allied command did not muster sufficient transports or send sufficient men to capture Rome speedily, and perhaps go on northward as far as Florence, where we expected to be by now.

The question, therefore, arises whether, in view of world plans and strategy, our high command will consider it worthwhile to take ships and men from other coming ventures to realize the Italian objectives which are certainly not as vital, for instance, as success of the threatened European invasion.

After all, Rome and the second third of Italy have no decisive military possibilities. We may decide merely to do as well as we can with what we have on that front, being, as everyone seems confident, in no danger of rout or defeat.

Situation in India

Jap invasion of India may not be a threat to that large nation, but it certainly is an embarrassing danger to our vital communications with China. Necessity of destroying the Jap force and driving it back to Burma cannot be belittled by the larger considerations.

There is really no battleline on that front. The conflict is merely a series of forays by patrols wandering through jungles and across mountains.

Incidentally, the Indian divisions being used there (and used also at Cassino) are two-thirds native, one-third British, and excellent modern fighters.

WILLARD PRICE

WILLARD PRICE, author of "Japan's Islands of Mystery," has, quite likely, as few illusions about the Japanese as any practicing writer, although he is more understanding than most. He really knows the enemy, and his usefulness to the United Nations at present is founded on the fact that he is one of very few white men to have visited Micronesia in the last few years, without suffering a "mysterious" death.

Through a combination of Japanese trickery, naivete on our part, and cynicism on the part of the victorious powers at Versailles, Japan was handed Micronesia: Japan promised not to fortify them, and did so. She thus cuttomed off a great share of Asia from the United States, placed herself athwart the route north from Australia, and will cost us many thousands of lives and many billions of dollars. She not only secured a defensive system without which she could not, Mr. Price points out, dream of Pacific conquest; she at once and successfully began commercial exploitation and used Micronesia as a base for infiltration of Mindanao and Celebes. The subsidized ship lines which served Micronesia were forced to include stops at Davao and at Menado on Celebes as well, and fares to these points were conveniently cut in half.

Blandly, Mr. Price maneuvered the Japs into allowing him to circle their possessions on Japanese ships. He and his wife were supposed to be naturalists, as actually they were. At each stop the Japs conventionally tipped them off to the places where air fields and fortifications were being built by insisting that nothing important was in those places, but that they could not be seen just the same. The Prices did not always succeed in seeing them, either, but by careful, casual questioning of natives, they found out a surprising number of things. "Japan's Islands of Mystery" describes many actual installations, indicates where the terrain makes fortification, air or sea bases likely, and perhaps even more important, it describes the approaches to such islands as Palau, Truk, Ponape and the Marianas, including reefs and harbors, and tells what the invader is likely to encounter in the way of pests and helpful conditions ashore.

Foreign Policy Questions in Pacific Area

By James D. White

WHEN the United States marines hoisted the Stars and Stripes over the Marshall islands, they raised a question of policy which will take some American soul-searching.

The Marshalls were Japanese territory—the first we had taken.

How long and under what circumstances will the American flag fly there?

The question probably won't be answered until American policy is geared in with a general peace settlement. In the meantime, captured Japanese territory will be under American military government.

The history of the Marshalls may bear on their disposal. Other Pacific islands which had been mandated to Japan, such as the Marianas and the Carolines, fall into the same class.

There are hundreds of these islands though they don't mean much in total land area. The Carolinas are spread out over a distance equal to that between Chicago and Spokane, but they have less land area than Rhode Island.

Japan was given a League of Nations mandate to a coffin-shaped segment of the Pacific after World war I, in which she wrested the islands from the Germans.

The mandate was a trusteeship, to be handled in the role of protector, nor exploiter, or conqueror. It implied the control of a guardian over an orphan child.

The Germans had bought the Carolines and the Marianas from Spain in 1899, and had laid claim to the Marshalls—despite Australian opposition, in 1885.

The peace conference is unlikely to recognize any Japanese claims to the islands because Japan violated the mandate when she closed them to the rest of the world and used them as bases for aggression.

IT'S a safe guess the United States will be in occupation of most, if not all the disputed islands when the war ends.

One line of thought is to retain them for naval and air bases to guard against a repetition of what happened in 1941 and 1942.

It's a safe guess that American naval thinking will favor a strong post-war base in the Marianas, possibly part of a chain of bases linking the Philippines to Pearl Harbor via the Carolines, Marshalls and Wake.

However, the United States is pledged to no territorial aggrandizement. There are unofficial suggestions how to get around this, but all hinge on arrangements the peace conference may make for international control of territory, whose ownership is not clear.

The United States also is pledged to give the Philippines independence, but that may not end an American feeling of responsibility for protecting them.

There are four other classes of territory which are being or will be won from the Japanese.

1. Japan's conquests in World war II, including Burma, Malaya, the Dutch East Indies, the Philippines and captured British and Australian mandates. There is nothing to date to contradict the assumption these territories will return to their pre-war owners.

British residency flags fly over Guadalcanal and Tarawa, though American troops recaptured them, because these places were under mandate to Britain.

Also to be considered as borderline cases are Thailand (Siam) and French Indo-China. Thailand, a Japanese ally, may produce a Badoglio at an auspicious moment. French Indo-China, giving Vichy cooperation to Japan, is being eyes by the Free French.

2. Japan's conquests between World wars 1 and 2, including Manchuria, Inner Mongolia, occupied, China, and the barren Spratley islands (between Indo-China and Borneo), which France claimed before the Japs took them in 1939.

The Cairo conference decreed that such fruits of aggression should revert to their original owners. Thus, Manchuria and Mongolia and occupied China will go back to China.

3. Conquest before World war I, including Korea, Formosa, the Loochoo islands and the Pescadores. Korea is to regain its independence, according to the Cairo decisions, while Formosa, the Loochoos and the Pescadores will revert to China, which lost them to Japan in the war of 1895.

4. Japan's "legally acquired" outlying possessions, which are few indeed. They include the Bonin islands extending southward from Japan toward the Marianas mandate, and which Japan used as a penal colony in the 16th century but never bothered to claim formally until 1876.

Also, tiny, isolated Marcus island, three-quarters of the way from Tokyo to Wake island, which Japan occupied in 1899 after the United States got Guam and the Philippines from Spain, and the Kuriles, running northward from Japan to Kamchatka. For a long time Japan held all but three of the most northerly of these islands. Then in a deal with imperial Russia in 1875, Japan traded the northern (and then worthless half of Sakhalin to Russia for Paramushiro, Shumushu and Araito, to complete a Jap chain across the eastern side of the sea of Okhotsk.

What happens after the war to these exceptional "legal" possessions of Japan depends entirely upon who writes the peace and how it is written.

Dollar for Dollar

The steel industry matched government funds dollar for dollar in financing the two-billion-dollar emergency wartime steel expansion program started in 1940, according to American Iron and Steel Institute.

From 1940 through 1944, companies in the industry have spent or will spend $1,151,000,000 in developing new ore mines, building new blast furnaces and steel furnaces, and installing other items of new equipment. Over the same period, government funds for the same purpose total $1,063,000,000.

New ore mines with an expected annual capacity of 15,000,000 tons of ore have been developed or are nearing completion. Since January, 1940, nearly 14,000,000 tons of new blast furnace capacity, and more than 12,000,000 tons of new steelmaking capacity have been built.

The industry-financed share of the program actually began to get under way before this country entered war. During 1940, nearly 2,000,000 tons of new blast furnace capacity and 2,500,000 tons of new steel capacity were installed. In 1941 the industry increased new equipment expenditures 70 per cent over the previous year to a total of $295,000,000. The government-financed part of the program began late in 1941, reached a peak of 1943, and is expected to taper off sharply in 1944.

In 1944, the steel industry is planning to spend $181,000,000 of its own funds for new equipment and construction, or only about 25 per cent less than its 1943 expenditures of $239,000,000 for the same purposes. The $131,000,000 of government funds which will be spent in 1944 for new iron and steel plant equipment is 75 per cent below the total of $516,000,000 in government money spent during the year 1943.

Pvt. Purkey Prepares To Vote

DEAR HARRIET: Well, the President didn't veto or okay the soldiers vote law and I am too mixed up to know if I should do the same. From all the forms, applications, postcards, etc., which I have to get to make my vote counted I can't make out for sure if I am trying to vote or trying to get a new auto tire with white walls.

I had to go through the law kind of quickly on account of my sergeant refuses to stop the war for a careful study like it needs. It looks to me like it will be harder to get my vote counted than it will be to lick both Hitler and Tojo.

* * *

One thing is certain, Harriet. All next summer and fall a soldier or sailor is going to be snowed under with so many forms, questionnaires, postcards and sets of directions how to vote that either the war has got to be postponed until after election or else he has got to have clerical and legal help.

* * *

To do his duty in the war and in the election a GI will need a secretary, a checker and at least one good lawyer. I am a little more than most GI's so I will settle for just a attorney and a filing clerk, but no soldier in the war zone is going to be able to vote single handed, no matter how smart he is.

Washington sends us a federal ballot, one state sends us another kind of ballot and another state sends a special form with cash prizes if we can understand it in one campaign.

If I get it right I got to apply for a state ballot by September 1st. If I don't get none by October 1st I can use a federal ballot promised that by Fourth of July the governor of my state has certified everything as on the up and up and has agreed not to carry the whole business to the Supreme Court.

* * *

First of all my state and government has got to locate me before it can get me the necessary forms, so I am asking the general not to move me around in the war more than he can help as it will only confuse me and the government. Then my vote has to get back by boat submarine and airplane in time for the election, depite U boats, bombers and raiders.

* * *

I see most of the votes is to be sent back airmail. It will be just my luck to have my vote shot down by the enemy.

* * *

It leaves me pretty dizzy. Maybe I would get off easier if I just forget about the vote and save time and ink and application forms by filling out one of them forms for a B gas card.

TRIPLETS have been born at a New York Maternity Hospital, following quadruplets a few days before. We think this entitles the institution to an "E" flag.

We hear that in the case of Mr. Zaricf, the father of the quads, he was in an ante-room as the attendants brought him the news, play by play, as it were.

"One," said a nurse, as the first baby arrived.

"Two," she said a moment later.

"Two!" exclaimed the father.

"Yes, now do you want to go for double or nothing?"

* * *

The drop from quads to triplets is understandable. The hospital had to establish a limit of three to a customer.

Never Too Soon

By Truman Twill

One of the young married set, a greenhorn groom who hasn't been around much and only knows the easy answers, was wondering out loud on a recent balmy day whether it was too soon to take out the storm windows in his cottage small by a bus stop. You must be new in this country, pard.

When you get knocked into some sense, you won't mention storm windows in connection with something that can be done, or can't be done, depending on the weather. You will go by the way you feel. You will feel your muscles and test your knee jerks and say, "This is the day." As you grow older, there won't be many of the days, either.

Storm windows, little man, aren't something you take out the way you take peas out of pods. They come out like pulling teeth, a little tougher, if possible, than they went in. And don't think you get any younger from season to season. Where did you grow up, sonny, that you never learned the facts of life?

Don't you realize that when you finally do take out those windows you are going to put on your little safety belt and do a stretch of window washing? And that you must trundle off the storm windows and hide them someplace where no kid will chunk a rock through them? Come to, associate. It may take you a couple of weeks just to find a place where storm windows can be stored.

If you'll take a hint from One Who Knows, you will take out storm windows when the mood strikes you. Pay no attention to the calendar. If you start taking out the windows soon after you have finished putting them in, you will keep abreast of your schedule. Your job will be pretty well cleaned up by the time she says it is time to put in the screens.

Then when all the screens are in, you can begin sneaking them out and putting in the storm windows. This way you can keep yourself busy 12 months a year, and in your spare time you can take out both windows and screens and wash underneath, then put them back again and teeter on ladders and balance on window sills and make a holy show and a galley slave out of yourself.

Because that's the way it is, little friend. That's the way they've arranged your life for you. That's what the veterans mean when they mutter about the inconveniences of the conveniences of home. You and your wide-eyed innocence!

So They Say—

We exist today as a nation because we were willing to endure and were not willing to rest.—Prime Minister Eamon De Valera of Eire.

We must stop wasting human and material sources and find ways to maintain permanent full production and employment.—Murray D. Lincoln, general manager Ohio Farm Bureau.

Japanese Drive Into India Not To Be Ignored

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

When the Japanese invaded the Manipur region of India from Burma recently this column said the operation didn't constitute a major threat to the allies, but that it would be a mistake to treat it lightly.

Any leak in a dike is dangerous, no matter how small.

That still remains true, but public interest is growing in this determined enemy effort to bring off a coup. There's general complaint, however, that the mysteries of Burmese geography, and the multuplicity of battles, are confusing. Therefore by request we offer a review of the position in as unencumbered terms as possible.

Let's start by making our own easy map. Just draw an isosceles triangle with a narrow apex and stand it on its base. That's Burma. Its base is washed by the Bay of Bengal. West of the upright is India. North of the tip is Tibet—but forget that. On the east is China (with French-Indo China and Siam, but don't bother about them).

Now then, there are three main theaters. One is in the northern tip. The second is about half way down the western side—where the Mikado's men have crossed into India. The third is along the coast at the base.

China's Life Line

The quarrel in the two upper theaters is mainly concerned with communications—China's life-line. It's one of the vital phases of the war with Japan.

To understand this you must remember that when the Japanese overran Burma and cut the Burma road, they severed this back-door land connection with China. That forced the allies to resort to American air transport between India and China, and try to develop an alternate land route. For the latter they fell back on the railway, highway and river communications running north through India near the western Burmese border.

The railway ends at the town of Ledo, up near the tip of the triangle. From Ledo American engineers drove a highway into Burma, hoping in due course to run it clear across the tip to China so as to connect with the severed end of the Burma road which leads on to Chungking.

Well, now, the fighting in the extreme northern theater, revolves about the allied effort to oust the enemy so the Ledo road can be extended. That's where our Lt. General Joseph Stilwell, and Brigadier Frank Merrill, are battling. The main objective is the great Japanese base of Myitkyina, head of the railway that runs south clear to Rangoon on the coast. The allies have this base surrounded, and the conflict is increasingly fierce.

Aim at Railway

In the second theater, where the Japanese have crossed into India, they are aiming at the railway, about 75 miles from the border, and have covered about half the distance through the jungles. If they should cut the line they would raise havoc with allied communications to China, since land and air transport are coordinated.

The fighting has been heavy and the invaders have suffered 9,000 casualties in the last three weeks. The British command expresses confidence in allied ability to control the situation. There's no reason to doubt this estimate, though some nasty positions might develop. There probably are a minimum of 1,000,000 trained and armed troops in India, and strong American and British air forces, to handle any crisis. But of course we can't afford to have the China lifeline interfered with at this juncture.

The Japanese have another important objective in this drive. That's political. They claim the invasion is being made by the Indian army of freedom. They want to start a revolt in India against the English.

In the southern theater on the coast the allies are conducting an offensive from India to capture the powerful air base of Akyab. That must be in allied hands before an amphibious invasion of Burma can be attempted.

More than 22 million of Britain's 33 million persons between the ages of 14 and 64 are in the armed services or essential production.

ment from Tiffin to illuminate the Lincoln park diamond. Hartley hopes to see the lights in place in time for the opening day.

The club already has made provision to avoid conflict with a previously-scheduled meeting of the Little Grand Circuit harness racing group at Marion fairgrounds June 8-24, arranging to play all games away from Marion in that period.

The Marion team will play a 130-game schedule, half of the games here and half at the grounds of other clubs. Each team will keep the gate receipts for its home games excepting for holidays when the day's receipts will be pooled and divided among the clubs.

Former Big Leaguer

Hartley, anxious to get started, is an old hand at the baseball game. He played in the major leagues for 19 years and also coached. He played with the Giants, the Cleveland Indians, Browns and Red Sox, mostly as catcher. He was manager of the Columbus team of the American association in 1919. From 1937 through 1941 he was manager of the Findlay team in the Ohio State league. Recently he has been serving as recreational coordinator for the city of Columbus, in charge of playground activities and the knot-hole gangs that were built up around athletic teams in Columbus. He plans to go back to Columbus Friday long enough to wind up his affairs there, then return to Marion to devote full time to preparations for the Marion baseball season.

Pleased With Program

The fact that Marion will start as an independent team is a source of satisfaction to Hartley. He declared that this arrangement will give him greater freedom as manager and in his opinion should produce a livelier brand of baseball than might be possible if Marion were a farm team for some larger team, using players assigned to it. However, it will be possible to get talent from larger teams under an individual option arrangement, he pointed out.

Some 15 prospective players have already communicated with the Marion club, and Hartley knows of three others who want to try out, it is expected other applications will come in between now and the start of the school and tryout camp in Marion April 17.

Social Affairs

EASTER SUNDAY is the date chosen by Miss Dolores Lenore Bain for her marriage to Chief Petty Officer Donald David Alexander. The wedding will take place at 2:30 p. m., in the First Presbyterian church with Rev. H. L. Olewiler performing the ceremony. Open church will be observed. Miss Bain is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Bain of 932 Sheridan road and her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Alexander of Bowling Green.

FINAL plans are being made by the social committee of Lecture-Recital club for the annual buffet supper to be held in Hotel Harding ballroom at 6:30 p. m. Monday, April 10. The club chorus will present several numbers for members and patronesses of the club. L. G. Jones is the director of the chorus and Miss Rosaline Manzo the accompanist. Miss Wanda McMahon and Miss Dorothy Buckley are in charge of the social arrangements and members and patronesses planning to attend the dinner should make reservations with them by Friday noon. The Lecture-Recital board will meet Thursday noon at Hotel Marion.

The forty-fifth anniversary of the Y. M. B club was observed Saturday night with a dinner at the Manor House. The club, one of the oldest in Marion, is known for its various activities during World War I. The members are Mrs. Clara Morrison, only charter member, Mrs. Frank Harmon, president, Mrs. William Bull, secretary, Mrs Frank Beck, Mrs. Ben Sager, Mrs. Everhard Hoffmanns, Mrs. Laura Shurz, Mrs. Maude Haybeck, Mrs. John Davis, Mrs. Lulu Bonen and Mrs. Anna Zimmerman. Contests were won by Mrs. Haybeck, Mrs. Bull and Mrs. Morrison. Mrs Bertha Irion won the guest prize.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 5—A controversy over the state of dress or undress of a coed pictured in a campus humor magazine will be aired before the Ohio State university committee on student publications.

John B. Fullen charged yesterday in the university alumni bulletin that a "nude" in the March issue of the Sundial "outshames the old Police Gazette." Prof. James Pollard, chairman of the publications committee and head of the school of journalism at the university, announced last night the charges would be investigated "before the last of the week."

Fullen, editor of the bulletin, likened the Sundial to a "disreputable, brazen little hussy." He upbraided Miss Phyllis Gilberg of Fremont, editor of the humor magazine.

"The nude you printed on page nine outshames the old Police Gazette," Fullen wrote. "They printed the can-can girls and the girls in the chorus line, but you took a real life coed from here on the campus. We hope her mother saw it and spanked her."

"In a college magazine edited by women, some of your material is nothing short of nauseating even to an old son-of-a-gun like me."

"It was not a nude," Miss Gilberg declared when told of the article. She did not amplify this statement.

"I have not been informed by university officials that the March issue was unacceptable," she said "Until I am so informed I have nothing more to say."

this exam being sent to Columbus for physical tests. Those passing both mental and physical examinations become members of the Aviation Cadet Enlisted Reserve and are allowed to complete their school term before being called to active service. During this time the CAP gives the cadets preliminary training in such basic subjects as infantry drill, safeguarding military information, military courtesy and discipline and aircraft identification.

It has been found that the training received by the cadets from the CAP throughout the country has greatly benefitted them and reduced the percentage of "washouts" during preflight, primary and basic training.

The recruiting of Aviation Cadets has been temporarily halted due to the tremendous response by the CAP when ordered to lend its efforts to the recruiting program. This work will continue, however, when those in the enlisted reserve are called to active service. In the meantime the CAP will conduct training classes for those enlisted cadets and future candidates.

Recruiting Air WACS

Due to the urgent need of additional Air WACs to relieve Air Corps men for combat duty, the CAP is being asked to assist in the recruiting of women for this branch of the service. Any women between the ages of 20 and 49 without children under 14 years old and not now working in the defense industry are being urged to contact the Marion Squadron of CAP having headquarters at the U. S. Army Recruiting Office, Room 15 of the Post Office building where CAP members will be stationed from 7 to 9 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. Full particulars will be explained and familiarization flights in the Army L-3B aircraft will be given to those interested and qualified.

If there are any Aviation Cadet Enlisted Reserve members in Marion or vicinity not now attending CAP classes each Tuesday evening from 8 to 10 p. m. they are urged to do so. The cadets are being organized into a CAP Cadet group and a comprehensive training program including official sound films is being scheduled.

Also, all men and women interested in the future of aviation are invited to inquire relative to the requirements for joining the Civil Air Patrol.

The status of the Marion CAP was recently changed from a flight to a squadron and the staff reorganized. Lt. Wilfred Reichenstein, has been appointed commanding officer; Lt. John Barnhart, adjutant; Lt. Paul McCleary, transportation officer; Warrant Officer William Emberton, engineering and supply officer; Pvt. Pauline Clement, deputy adjutant; Pvt. John Zant, deputy operations and training officer; Pvt. Arthur Cilek, deputy intelligence officer. Additional deputy officers are yet to be appointed.

Crack Shot Ohioan Alive Today, but Three Japs Are Not

By The Associated Press

BOUGAINVILLE, April 5—Major Ralph K. Halterman, 35, of Newark, O., is alive today—and three Japs are dead—because he's quick on the draw with a .45 revolver.

Halterman gained recognition back home for his skill with a shotgun—but here the .45 saved his life at least twice.

The major spotted his first Jap sneaking toward his tank outfit around an old log. He pulled his revolver and killed him—at 40 yards.

A few days later going down a jungle trail with another major he ran head-on into five Japanese. The Ohioan, drawing with lightning-like speed, killed two of them with two shots. The other major blasted the remaining three with a tommy gun.

By the time he was in his teens Halterman was winning "shoots" at his native St. Louisville, near Newark. Then he entered the national trapshoot at Vandalia. In 1939, he won a life membership in the Vandalia American Handicap Trapshooters' association. A year later he won second place in the Ohio State shoot.

Halterman enlisted in the U. S. Army March 25, 1941, at Newark, where his mother, Mrs. Amelia Halterman, resides. He joined the medical corps, trained at Camp Lee, Va., and Walter Reed hospital, Washington, then was assigned to New Caledonia. He later joined a tank corps.

Major Halterman's wife and nine-year-old daughter, Jay Lee, live at Columbus, O., and a sister, Mrs. Geneva Wheeler, resides at Lakewood, a suburb of Cleveland.

COMMANDS 9TH AIR FORCE

SPORTS CLUB SITES VIEWED

County Fish and Game Association Hears Reports on Project.

Realization of setting up a clubhouse came closer Tuesday night when the Marion County Fish and Game association met at Eagles' hall. Since the last meeting sites which were presented in answer to advertisements for land have been inspected. It was announced that O. H. Neimeyer will take color photos which will be made into slides and shown at the May 2 meeting of the group. At that time members will be able to view all possibilities of land under consideration. Two especially favorable sites have been located on the Whetstone river, the first about a mile and one-half below King's mills. Both sites offer areas for fishing.

Members are seeking a tract which can be used for all sports including fishing, archery, and trap shooting. It is estimated that a tract of about 10 acres would be sufficient. One of the sites under consideration has an area of 11¾ acres. Land not suitable for farming was sought by members because they are interested mainly in turning the land over to game and in making attempts at conservation measures.

Officers Elected

Officers were elected by the Marion County Conservation committee which held a joint meeting with the association last night. Officers are: John Jolley, chairman; Ronald Selanders, secretary; Harry Cook, farmers' representative to the district committee; James Fletcher, alternate; Harold Magers, sportsmen's representative, and William L. White, alternate. The county conservation commission is one of seven counties represented in District 7 of the state. Each county committee sends two representatives, one for farmers and one for sportsmen, to the district meeting. There they discuss changes in hunting and conservation laws and send recommendations to the state meeting. Representatives from each district then meet with the State Conservation commission and discuss proposed changes in laws. At last night's meeting members read through 1944 hunting laws and suggested changes to representatives.

COMMUNISM GONE IN RUSSIA, ROSEN SAYS

Change Reported by Speaker to Club Federation Audience.

Russia today, pictured against the czarist regime and the communistic years that followed, was presented in an entertaining and informative talk given by Samuel D. Rosen, native Russian and U. S. citizen, last night in the Star auditorium. Mr. Rosen spoke under sponsorship of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs and brought to a close the federation's program meetings this season. Sharing the program with the speaker was the Marion Lecture-Recital club chorus heard in a group of three numbers directed by L. G. Jones with Miss Rosaline Manzo at the piano.

The world today admires, but also suspects Russia, Mr. Rosen told the audience of approximately 400 men and women. He attributed the admiration to the fact that Russia, pressed to the wall for almost two years, turned about and crushed its oppressor, but declared that the world, not understanding Russia, feared and suspected her. Crisis, upheaval, purge and resurrection is Russia's story of revolution. "If the czarist system had been amenable the czar of Russia would have been czar today," he stated.

The years following the revolution saw the development of a new social system, separation and laxness in the family life, purging of text books, abolishment of army rank and discipline and liquidation of the churches, and he pictured the failure of the share and share alike system of communism, the lessening of agricultural and industrial production and Russia's becoming a land of scarcity. Millions died of starvation in the years of 1931 to 1933, he stated.

Communism is a beautiful theory, the formula is beautiful, but it didn't work, Dr. Rosen said. It didn't work, he explained, because human nature is not constituted so as to go into business and share and share alike. He told of the changes he saw on his last visit to his native land and declared that "communism is out the window." Religion has been brought back, recognition of rank is established in the army, divorces are not so easily obtained and marriages are more seriously entered into.

The three numbers by the women's chorus which provided a musical setting for the talk were compositions of Russian, British and American composers. The first was "The Bells," a Rachmaninoff composition, the second, "British Children's Prayer," by Jacques Wolfe and the third, "Challenge," by M. Flora Todd. The singers gave a commendable account of themselves in rendition and interpretation of the numbers.

Mrs. Harold K. Mouser, program chairman, and Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer, president of the federation, presided, and the meeting opened with the singing of the national anthem.

Lindbergh Is Given Yellow Fever Shots
By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 5—Charles A. Lindbergh has received yellow fever immunization injections, such as those given persons going overseas, at Marine hospital here, but available sources declined to say whether the aviator was planning a trip outside the country.

Lindbergh, whose immediate whereabouts were not disclosed, visited the hospital Monday. Navy and hospital authorities had no comment and officials of the Ford Motor Co., his employer, said they knew nothing of his plans.

The Marine hospital is operated by the government but has no direct connection with the Army and Navy. It checks persons arriving or leaving the country, however.

300 AT STUDENTS' PRE-EASTER SERVICE

"Fellowship" Is Today's Program Theme.

A group of 300 students of Harding High school attended a pre-Easter service this morning at Central Christian church. The services are under the sponsorship of the Hi-Y and Girl Reserves and have as their theme, "Christianity—the Way of Life." Eleanor Swain and Duane Eastman were co-chairmen for this morning's meeting, which was built on the subject' "Fellowship Along the Way." Miss Swain, a member of the senior class, talked on the theme of the meeting. Joyce Bohyer led the call to worship and prayer was offered by Duane Eastman, who also led in a responsive reading. "Christians" was the title of a poem read by Jo Fredericks. Mrs. E. N. Hale sang "I Shall Not Pass This Way Again." Jeanne Quackenbush read a poem "Design for Tomorrow." Closing prayer was offered by John Titus. Jane Young led the group in singing hymns. Mrs. Virgil Curl provided organ music for the service. Rev. Eldred Johnston, pastor of Central Christian church, will speak on "The Way of the Cross" at tomorrow morning's meeting. This will be the last of the series to be held at the church. Martha Augenstein, Patricia Bryans and Bob Blake will act as co-chairmen.

LIBERATORS BLAST COAST OF FRANCE

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 5—U. S. Liberator bombers attacked military objectives in the Pas-De-Calais area of France today, air force headquarters announced.

Strong forces of daylight raiders were heard thundering out over England's southeast coast to renew the aerial offensive on western Europe after a three-day lull during which U. S. and British air forces in the Mediterranean struck heavy blows at Balkan capitals.

Thick clouds prevented observers on the English coast from obtaining a view of the outward bound raiders, but the time they required to pass overhead indicated formations were of considerable size.

Several continental radio stations went off the air suddenly during the morning, but at 11 a. m. (5AEW) the Berlin radio said there were no allied planes over Germany.

The burst of daylight activity followed raids by RAF Mosquito bombers last night on Cologne and other targets in the industrial Ruhr valley, the air ministry announced. All planes returned safely from these forays, said a communique, which credited a Mosquito with shooting down a single enemy plane over western France while on offensive patrol yesterday.

Marion Soldier Gets Purple Heart Award

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gorenflo of 475 East Mark street have received the purple heart award from their son, Pvt. John Gorenflo who was wounded in action in Italy on Jan. 3. Pvt. Gorenflo was released from the hospital in North Africa on Feb. 24 and returned to his medical unit in Italy. In a letter received from him eight days ago he said he was in a rest camp in Italy.

A graduate of Harding High school and a member of the Harding band, Pvt. Gorenflo has been in service since August, 1942. He has been overseas a year in March and saw action in the invasion at Salerno. A report of his experiences on the Italian front appeared in The Star Jan. 22.

Two other sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gorenflo are also in the service. Cpl. Donald L. Gorenflo is stationed at Camp Polk, La., and Robert Gorenflo, fireman first class is at Solomons Branch, Washington, D. C. Fireman Gorenflo spent last week-end with his parents.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS HOLY WEEK PROGRAM

Includes Talk by Rev. Olewiler, Songs by School Choir.

A pre-Easter program, including a talk by Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and songs by the Harding High school a cappella choir, was given following the weekly luncheon of the Rotary club at Hotel Harding yesterday.

Naming Holy Week as the outstanding week of the year, Rev. Olewiler said the events it commemorates constitute the foundation of the Christian religion.

"Remove the death and resurrection of Christ and our religion falls apart," he told his audience. "Disregard it and we have nothing left but an ethical system."

Reviewing the account of Christ's so-called trial, he declared it not a trial but merely an act of condemnation, history's most glaring example of "mob justice." Applying this to modern times, he decried all mob justice, pronouncing it as a procedure granting no justice whatever.

The arraignment and condemnation of Christ he termed "the greatest mistrial of history."

Rev. Olewiler, a member of the Marion Rotary club, has been chosen as its speaker on numerous special occasions relating to important events in the religious calendar. This was his twentieth address to the club and its guests since his enrollment as a member.

The program of the Harding a cappella choir, given under the direction of L. G. Jones, the city school's supervisor of music, followed Rev. Olewiler's address.

The numbers presented by the choir were: "Lead Kindly Light," music by Sandon; "Jesus Lover of My Soul"; "Thine Is the Greatness" by Bortniansky; and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You" by Lutkin.

At the opening of the Rotary meeting Dr. H. K. Mouser spoke in behalf of the cancer control movement now under way and requested support of the club.

L. H. Rieker and Merle Hughes were introduced as new members of the Rotary club.

Guests included Pvt. Newton D. Cunningham, Marion soldier on furlough following service in Africa and Italy, A. C. May, Harding High school principal and Dean S. Sellers of Detroit, Mich.

CZECHS MAP RULE OF LIBERATED AREA

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 5—The Czechoslovak government in London has agreed with Russia, Britain and the United States on a plan for administering its territory as soon as military operations permit.

The Czech embassy was so advised today in a communication from London, which said a delegation of the government will go into Czechoslovakian liberated areas the moment the Red army command declares them behind the line.

The Red army is virtually at the Czech northeast border already, but first allied troops to reenter the country are to be an independent Czech brigade, the message said. Czech liaison officers also are to accompany Russian troops moving into their territory.

Czech Ambassador Vladimir Hurban pointed out President Edouard Benes already has appealed to Czech underground leaders to form small secret committees in every village and town to work with the returning government.

Czech guerrillas have established contact with advancing Russian forces, the London report said.

Indians' Rookie Pitcher Says He'll Win 15 Games This Year

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 5—"Put me down for 15 victories," Charles "Red" Embree told all and sundry at the Cleveland Indians spring training camp at Lafayette, Ind., yesterday.

That sounds like a rash statement from a rookie pitcher who didn't even play in 1943. But Embree can make good his boast if he shows the form he did in pitching Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to an Eastern league pennant in 1941.

That year Embree, a 22-year-old right hander from Glendora, Calif., turned in an earned run average of 1.69 in winning 21 games and losing only five for Wilkes-Barre. Called up the next year by the Indians he won three and lost four, gaining invaluable experience in the big time. Last season he stayed on his California farm, but kept in training by pitching occasionally on the west coast.

Embree will watch from the bench today as Vern Kennedy, Paul Calvert and Joe Heving toe the mound against Pittsburgh, but he undoubtedly will be sent to the firing line within a few days.

News about other major league teams:

Cincinnati Reds—"I am much happy!" exclaimed Manuel Jesus Ramos Garcia, known in Venezuela baseball circles as Chucho Ramos, on arrival at Bloomington, Ind., camp in time to see first snow, first major league workout and wear first overcoat.

St. Louis Cardinals—George Munger, Bud Byerly and Al Furisich to divide pitching duties against Browns on Saturday.

Chicago White Sox—Manager Jimmy Dykes left for Philadelphia to attend wedding of his son, Seaman Jimmy Jr., to Miss Ruth King in Ardmore, Pa., Saturday.

Pittsburgh Pirates—Looking ahead two weeks Manager Frankie Frisch tentatively picked southpaw Elwin (Preacher) Roe as starting pitcher against Cardinals.

Philadelphia Athletics—Outfielder Lee Riley and southpaw Charley Ripple joined squad.

Philadelphia A's—Third sacker Frank Juliano rejoined team after passing pre-induction physical exam in New York.

Boston Red Sox—Clem Hausmann and Mike Ryba hurl against New York Giants at Lakewood, N. J., today.

Brooklyn Dodgers—Outfielder Louis Olmo hopes to keep up slugging. His triple and single beat Yankees at Trenton, N. J., yesterday.

Chicago Cubs—Paul Derringer's ankle, injured several weeks ago, swelled up after he worked three innings against Detroit.

Boston Braves—Jim Tobin, Billy Marshall and Hal Shacker pitch against Yale today.

COLLEGIATE SPORTS PROGRAM SHARPLY CURTAILED IN OHIO

Only 7 Conference Schools To Field Baseball Teams This Spring.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 5—Ohio's collegiate spring sports program will be sharply curtailed again this year because of the war, but a check today showed at least 11 schools, in addition to Ohio State, will have some form of intercollegiate athletic activity.

George Daniel, commissioner of the Ohio conference, reported seven members of the loop will have baseball teams. They are Baldwin-Wallace, Capital, Denison, Oberlin, Otterbein, Toledo and Wittenberg.

Only four conference schools will have full-time track teams. They are Baldwin-Wallace, Case, Denison and Oberlin.

Case is the only school which will have a track team but won't go in for baseball. Bowling Green, Ohio Wesleyan and Miami, among the non-conference schools, plan both baseball and track teams.

The Ohio conference will not hold a league track meet this season but Ohio Wesleyan is planning an All-Ohio meet at Delaware, June 10 or 17. Daniel said the four schools which will have regular track teams will be represented in that meet, while Capital, Kenyon, Muskingum, Otterbein, Toledo and Wittenberg hope to enter a few boys. Akron a probationary member of the conference, also may enter a few athletes.

Dykes Certain Trosky's Power Will Be Big Help to White Sox

HAL TROSKY
Hit 216 Homers in 9 Years

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Features Sports Editor

FRENCH LICK, Ind.—There's an old lady they call Fate and she does some queer things. For example:

This third war year is giving a lot of rookies a chance to make good in baseball. It is giving new life to many veterans once considered through.

Here in the Chicago White Sox camp, there are many of these youngsters, and a few oldsters. But this baseball season means more to one newcomer on Manager Jimmy Dykes' squad than it does to any other professional player.

He is first baseman Harold (Hal) Arthur Trosky, a veteran of nine major league campaigns, all of them with Cleveland.

Talk about your dramatic stories! Every game Trosky plays this year may mean the continuance or end of a great baseball career.

Trosky knows it and the White Sox know it, but all concerned are willing to take a chance.

Out Two Seasons

Hal hasn't played any ball since early in 1942 when severe headaches forced him to quit the game. The doctors call it migraine, and they admit there's not much to do for it except to take B-1 injections.

"I've been taking the injections two years now and I think they have helped me a lot," says Trosky. "I'm not cured. The head aches haven't any cure, but I think I'm improved enough to play baseball. I hope so."

Hal hates to talk about the migraine but he admits that he wants to be fair with the fans and the team.

"I just made up my mind this year that I'd come back and try it again," smiles the big good natured 6 foot three Chisox with a determination that's tough to beat.

As far as condition goes, Trosky says his weight has never changed. It's still around 200.

"I've kept in fair shape on the farm and worked out with the boys whenever I wasn't busy. The only thing is, I haven't batted much, and that may take me a little time to get caught up on. If I can get a pitcher to work with me, I intend to take 10 or 15 minutes extra hitting practice every day."

Hal is quite proud of nine-year batting average of .313 with the Indians. His best year was in 1936 when he hit .343 and led the league in runs batted in with 152. In the nine-year stretch, he hit 216 homers.

Dykes is certain that Trosky will help a lot. "He'll supply a long-needed distance power in the cleanup slot," smiles Jimmy, "and it is just what we need."

Looks The Same

Up at the bat, Trosky doesn't look any different than he ever did. He's missing a little on his timing, to be sure. But, the big fellow still has that wide-spaced stance, takes a terrific cut, and when he connects—wham!

Hal has one baseball ambition he hopes to fill this year.

"I hit three home runs in one game twice," he says proudly. "I had a chance to make four in a game once and failed. I want to make four homers in one game before I'm through, and by gosh, I will, too."

Ortiz Beats Olivera in Los Angeles Battle

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, April 5—Manuel Ortiz went back to hauling vegetables today, but still with him was the world's bantamweight boxing crown he had defended against 10 challengers in a year and a half.

The Imperial Valley farmer from El Centro, Calif., won a unanimous decision over Tony Olivera of Oakland, in a 15-round title bout last night.

The victory was Ortiz' third over Olivera. Last year he won a technical knockout, and previously a decision. Back in 1941, however, Ortiz lost a decision to Olivera, the last time he was defeated. He won the title from Lou Salica in August, 1942.

Sammy Angott Beats Washington Sensation

WASHINGTON, April 5—Mr. Samuel Angott, one of the leading citizens of Washington, Pa., told all within listening distance today that he's 'ready to rejoin the exclusive circle of fistic champions.

Angott, who lost his National Boxing association lightweight crown to Juan Zurita of Mexico last month, showed last night that he still has the championship urge. He pounded out a decisive 10-round verdict over Aaron Perry, 18-year-old Washington Negro billed as a sensational fistic prospect. The decision broke Perry's streak of 16 consecutive wins.

Returns Thursday

Martino Angelo, one of the best known grapplers in the game returns to the Marion mat, Thursday to wrestle Whitey Walberg in the two hour main event. Angelo has held the Light Heavy Weight Belt twice and this will likely be the last time Marion Fans will get to see the Italian in action for quite a while as Uncle Sam is calling him for some action.

The one hour semi-final should rival the main event as Pat "Tex" Riley will wrestle Angelo Martinelli. Both these boys are big favorites to Marion fans.

To open the show at 8:30 Promoter Fishbaugh has signed two boys who have not been to the armory in over a year, Gorilla Pogi and Gentleman Dale Haddock. Prices, including new Fed. Tax—General 60c. Ringside 85c. Kids under 14 years 35c. Call Markert & Lewis Cigar Store for reservations.—Adv.

Mexican Baseball Too Much for Rajah, Quits Vera Cruz

By The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, April 5—Rogers Hornsby, former major league baseball star who came to Mexico back in February amid reams of publicity, has resigned as manager of the Vera Cruz club in the Mexican baseball league.

Hornsby—"Rajah" announced his resignation last night, adding that he would return to Fort Worth, Texas, where he piloted that city's baseball club in 1942 before he decided to quit for the season.

"I am perfectly willing to keep my contract agreements if the other fellow keeps his," Hornsby said in explaining his action. "But in this case it's hopeless."

He found out that I'd even have to pay my expenses on road trips and trains' unheard of. The management finally consented to pay my expenses, but there were many other matters to iron out. I finally gave up."

Jorge Pasquel, president of the league and also of the Vera Cruz club, did not comment.

Hornsby asserted there is a great future for baseball in Mexico but a lack of cooperation.

After a poor start, Hornsby pulled the Vera Cruz club to second place in the league. He himself won two games as a ninth inning pinchhitter, the latest on Saturday when he drove in three runs with a double with the bases loaded.

SINKWICH IN SERVICE

ATLANTA, April 5—Frankie Sinkwich, twice All-America halfback at the University of Georgia and last year a star for the Detroit club of the National football league, headed today for Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., to train as an apprentice seaman in the U. S. maritime service.

YOUTHS ARRESTED

Three Columbus youths, two 16 years old and one 15, were arrested on Bellefontaine avenue at 12:20 a. m. today by city police, who charged them with disorderly conduct. They were held at City prison and turned over to Columbus juvenile authorities later this morning.

4-4-44, Not Lottery Number—Tuesday's Date

ATLANTA, April 4 — 4-4-44. This, Floyd Baskette, assistant professor of journalism at Emory university and a member of the staff of the Atlanta Associated Press bureau says, is not a lottery number nor even an A. P. O.

It's the date of yesterday.

And, Baskette points out, we won't write such a simple dateline again for 11 years—until May 5, 1955.

March 3, 1933, was the last one-figure dateline.

BURN AAA RECORDS IN DARKE COUNTY

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 5—Dale Williams, a member of the Ohio agricultural adjustment administration committee, said today opponents of the AAA program destroyed records in three Darke county AAA offices. He demanded the resignation of county AAA chairman Ora Fellers of Greenville by Saturday.

Williams said a group of between 50 and 60 persons entered AAA offices in York, Wabash and Franklin townships and burned and tore up data on the war food production program and records used by the office of price administration.

Williams said AAA workers in the township offices were told their barns might be fired unless they quit their jobs and that a band awoke Fellers in his home at night and told him to quit "or else."

He added a field man from the state AAA office had investigated the incidents, which he said occurred about 10 days ago, and had made a complete report to department of justice officers in Dayton.

Williams described the protesters as members or associates of "pressure groups" opposing recent requirements that AAA representatives pass on applications to the office of price administration for gasoline rations for farmers.

About two weeks ago a group appeared at the attorney general's office here and demanded action to prevent AAA participation in OPA gasoline rationing procedure but spokesmen for Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert said his office lacked jurisdiction because it was a federal matter.

INSPECTOR ON WITNESS STAND

Tells Court Army Officers Accepted Engines He Had Rejected.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 5—Testimony that army inspectors accepted airplane engines he personally had rejected came today from a former Wright Aeronautical Corp. engine test supervisor.

The witness, Robert D. Yankey of Ann Arbor, Mich., now employed at Henry Ford's Willow Run bomber plant, told a court martial trying three airforce officers on charges of neglect and conspiracy that he had rejected the engines because of smoky cylinders, oil leaks and fuel leaks. He asked a Mr. Gunier, general foreman of carburetor and tests at the Lockland plant for advice on Army acceptance of engines, he said, and was told "keep your hands off of what the Army has passed."

However, Yankey also testified that just after Gunter had said he saw nothing wrong with one engine running in a test-cell, a cylinder "blew." Yankey said he had noted a "red" cylinder on this engine.

Worked with Knudsen

Holger K. Christiansen, a former supervisor for Wright, who said he worked three years with Lt. Gen. William S. Knudsen, war production chief, in a big Copenhagen, Denmark, factory, testified he protested several times to the plant quality manager about inspection practices and that parts were given only a 25-per cent check in the final inspection. He said he thought new inspectors needed two or three months training that his superiors told him "three or four weeks" was enough. He said he had had 20 years' experience with internal combustion engines.

Christiansen said he asked for a transfer to the Wright home plant in Paterson, N. J., because of his health and after receiving it Aug. 15, 1942, was put to work opening packing boxes. He answered affirmatively when Col. Park Holland, counsel for Lt. Col. Frank C. Greulish, one of the accused, asked:

"You got little cooperation at Paterson?"

Daniel S. Blackman of the procurement control section of the AAF material command, Wright Field, Dayton, O., testified that the total face value of contracts and purchase orders to the Wright plant in Lockland was $1,079,808,849.

Others on Trial

Besides Col. Greulich, Majors Walter A. Ryan of Detroit and William A. Bruckmann of Cincinnati are on trial.

Ensign Robert K. Hoffman of Lewisburg, O., now attached to the naval air experimental station at Philadelphia as a test-engineer, told the court that when he worked at the Wright plant between September, 1941 and May, 1943, he dropped defective parts on the floor to mutilate them so they would be useless.

Hoffman said he had asked Ray W. Clark, supervising AAF inspector at Lockland, for stamps to identify condemned parts but never received them. He added that William Melvin, a Wright company supervisor on many occasions agreed with his judgement that a part was defective but said he would get in trouble with his superiors "if we reject them."

"We dropped the part on the floor to make it useless," Hoffman testified.

Hoffman also related he had asked why certain parts were accepted when under previous standards they would have been rejected and was told to let them go through unless the Army caught them.

Upper Sanduskian Takes Iran Government Job

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., April 5 — Mrs. Caroline Weiss, of Upper Sandusky, has received a letter from her son Harvey V. Stokely, who has been associated with the Bombay Branch of Parke, Davis & Co., since December, 1941, telling her he has accepted a position with the Iranian government as executive director of the Imperial Iranian Pharmaceutical Institute in Teheran. His employers have granted Mr. Stokely a temporary leave of absence to enable him to accept the war-time job of purchasing, importing and distributing the drugs and medical supplies for the country of Iran.

GRASS CATTLE STILL GOING TO MARKET

CHICAGO, April 5—The continued liquidation of a large number of partially finished cattle, which ordinarily would be fed to a high degree before marketing, may result in a serious beef shortage in the future, livestock experts said today.

The national livestock producer, a trade publication, said in its April issue that more grass fed and partially finished cattle skipped the feed-lots late this winter than in any of the past 15 years. The cattle were shipped directly to market.

The editorial stated that "this fall, more tens of thousands of grass-fed cattle will be sent to the markets for slaughter — the meat will be a little on the tough and stringy side, and lacking the rich, white marbling that characterizes good beef cuts from a finished animal."

Among other reasons given for this unloading of the better grade animals while still short-fed is the bad condition of feed-lots. Traders said recent conditions have been adverse and that the high cost and scarcity of feed grains made it practically impossible to feed cattle profitably.

Marketings of cattle have been increasing for the past several weeks. For the week ended March 25 there were 224,600 cattle and calves shipped into the 12 major mid-western markets, while for the week ended March 18 the total calves and cattle checked into these markets were 212,108.

Choice steers sold weak to 25 cents lower during the week, but other grades were 25 to 40 cents higher. The week's extreme top, reached Friday, was $17.00. Hog prices fluctuated throughout the week in line with receipt volume. The top for the week was $14.35 paid on Monday. Slaughter lambs were 15 to 25 cents lower than last week. The extreme top was $16.60.

Willkie's Defeat in Wisconsin Not Considered Fatal

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 5—Wendell L. Willkie's defeat in Wisconsin despite his 13-day campaign against three absentee prospects for the G.O.P. presidential nomination was regarded in political circles today as a serious but not necessarily fatal blow to his chances for renomination.

On the other hand, the stock of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey went up many notches, in the view of party leaders. His apparent capture of a minimum of 14 of the state's 24 delegates with only 13 running pledged to him, put him far out in front for the nomination despite his refusal to seek it.

Willkie told those who campaigned with him in Wisconsin he had to win at least 13 of the state's delegates to make a fair showing in an area which before the war was considered hostile to international cooperation. He failed to capture any delegates, with more than two-thirds of the vote counted.

However, his supporters here say he will enter the convention with a sizeable bloc of delegates. He picked up Oregon's 15 convention votes by default yesterday when the time for filing in the May 19 primary passed with Willkie the only entrant.

Willkie also is the only entrant in the Maryland primary May 1, but the voters there will have the alternative of balloting for an uninstructed delegation to the state convention which in turn picks the national convention delegates.

HOLY WEEK

sensitiveness. We used to hear our parents talk about the age of accountability, and we thought of it as quite definitely fixed at, say, nine or twelve years. Every age is the age of accountability. Every added year of life should find us more fully accountable for what we do. Life should be a growth in sensitiveness to the joys and sorrows of others, to the various shades of right and wrong. Those quiet seasons of self-inspection, in the light of God's truth, are the surest way to increase such sensitiveness. We'll have a better world where men are quick to feel the joys and sorrows of others."

RUSSIA

Zhukov's left wing, operating just north of Konev's front, slashed deeper into the Skala pocket west of Kamenet's Podolsk.

Capture of Khotin, district center 27 miles south of Skala and 30 miles northeast of Czernowitz, helped to close the ring around the trapped foe. The communique reported the entire Khotin garrison was wiped out as the Russians closed the last escape corridor across the Dniester to the pocketed Germans.

The lack of fresh reports on the progress of Konev's Rumanian invasion forces might mean either that he is meeting with stiffened axis opposition or that he is undertaking a complicated maneuver which entails the strictest secrecy.

BURIAL IN BUCYRUS

BUCYRUS, April 4—Funeral was conducted in Ashland today with burial in Oakwood cemetery here for Dr. John M. Kern, 43, chiropodist, native of Bucyrus and son of Mrs. Jessie Kerr, Kaler avenue. Dr. Kerr, a graduate of Bucyrus High school, started his practice in Ashland in 1939. He formerly was engaged in electrical and telephone work here.

OHIO STATE GUARD WILL BE DOUBLED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 5—Adj. Gen. Donald F. Pancoast announced today the Ohio State Guard would be doubled at once to its full strength of 4,800 officers and men. Present strength is about 2,400.

Pancoast said the war department had authorized the increase for reasons of internal security. He did not elaborate.

Two new infantry regiments will be organized to bring the total to five under the new program, the adjutant general explained. He said one regiment would be recruited in Cleveland and vicinity and the other in northwestern Ohio. Most of the volunteers will be men over draft age or classified 4-F in selective service, he added.

Pancoast said several car loads of additional weapons, ammunition, clothing and other military equipment already was in the state armory here and that other shipments were expected.

Present officers will remain in command of existing regiments, Pancoast said. He did not announce commanders for the new units.

Authorized strength of each of the five regiments is 51 officers and 839 men, he said, adding that olive drab uniforms such as worn by the regular U. S. army are being issued guardsmen.

REPORT ANTONESCU TO ASK ARMISTICE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 5—Blue network broadcast from London today quoted dispatches from Turkey as saying that Premier Antonescu of Rumania will seek an armistice from Washington, London and Moscow.

The network's correspondent Thomas B. Grandin said such a course had been urged upon the premier by an emissary he sent to Cairo to negotiate with the United Nations.

"The time is near when the Germans no longer will be able to hold the Balkans," Grandin said. "Nothing would be less surprising than a complete collapse of Rumania."

The Associated Press had no confirmation of the report, which came less than 24 hours after U. S. bombers had smashed at targets in Bucharest and while Russian troops were advancing only 200 miles northeast of the Rumanian capital.

Earlier the Berlin radio said Antonescu had issued a proclamation deploring the U. S. attack and calling upon his people to stand firm.

SORRY FOR MOTORISTS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Sympathy for gas-rationed motorists has been expressed by a prisoner in Tennessee's state penitentiary where the auto license tags are made.

A series of notes was found in the tag boxes unpacked in the county court clerk's office here. One note said: "Sorry I can't come home with this tag, but I'll be back in 1947."

LAKE SEASON DELAY HELPS WHEAT PRICE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 5 — Indications that opening of navigation on Lake Superior would be delayed possibly until the middle of the month, thereby limiting the amount of Canadian grains which can be shipped into this country during the navigation season, served to produce moderate buying in grain futures today.

Gains were mainly of small proportions, although rye spurted about a cent at one time on buying by commission houses. A slight pick-up in wheat flour business was reported at some markets, although millers were said to be concerned about the lack of shipping instructions from the government. Trade reports from the northwest said field work cannot be started until one or two weeks from now.

But Rail and Industrial Leaders Gain on Absence of Selling.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 5—Buying power was spread thin in today's stock market but in the absence of any considerable selling it was sufficient to boost rail and industrial leaders fractions to around a point.

Volume in the early proceedings was a little better than in yesterday's slow session but still well down from the average of the last month or so.

Near the fourth hour most of the pivotal issues were holding near their best levels.

The market's quiet appearance indicated the speculative swing continued under restraint pending invasion developments and a better line on the election prospects.

Stock in improved positions included Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, and N. Y. Central.

Bonds were steady. Commodity prices were mixed.

Look Out, or British Gals May Steal Post-War Show

LENA MADESIN PHILLIPS

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Writer

If American women are not careful, they will lose their feminist leadership to English women after the war.

That comment comes from Lena Madesin Phillips, president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women who has just returned from a trip to England and Sweden. Dr. Phillips made her trip under the auspices of the overseas branch of the OWI and had an opportunity to talk to the women of several countries.

"In their upsurge and aggressiveness, British women are like we were after we got the vote," she said. "They are at the beginning point where self is largely submerged in zeal for the cause. They seem utterly devoid of personal ambition. And they are sweeping forward at great rate. On the other hand American women are spending a lot of time in maintaining big organizations, irrespective of the results achieved.

"British women are much closer to the war than we are. They have lived through experiences our women have never had. They have suffered, lost and learned. And they have developed a greater social consciousness than we have. After the war they will be more in tune with the times."

Dr. Phillips, who was in London during recent bombings, flew from England to Sweden and back. She had some interesting comment to make on the woman air traveler's wartime costume. For the trip she wore two flying suits, one silk, the other canvas. In one pocket was a whistle, in the other was a battery connecting with a red light on her shoulder—both intended for use in case the plane was shot down at sea. Her head, with its close-cropped white hair, was encased in an oxygen mask, her feet in wool lined boots.

"We flew at night, of course—and very high," she said, "All we could do for that five or six hours was to sit in the darkness and pray."

After she made the trip to Sweden safely, Dr. Phillips slipped on a palm-sized piece of ice in Stockholm and broke her arm. But she made her scheduled speech that night before a group of Swedish women.

The head of the International Federation of Business and Professional women was much impressed by the caliber of the women she met in Sweden, including a group of Norwegian and Danish refugees.

"These women have been shaken out of self," she said. "Their great interest is in their country. After the war they are going to take a hand in making their communities what they ought to be."

Dr. Phillips will speak this spring at various women's conventions in Missouri, Michigan, Illinois and perhaps Ohio.

RECRUIT JAMAICA WORKERS

By The Associated Press

KINGSTON, Jamaica, April 5—Recruiting of 13,000 to 15,000 agricultural workers for work in the United States will start here next week, it was announced yesterday. The workers will be recruited by American authorities under a plan similar to one in effect last summer, when Jamaica supplied about 10,000 men to work on U. S. farms.

a week on the Register, covering bean suppers, "obits" and now and then a fire.

Remembers First Raise

He still treasures a letter from the boss at the end of six months saying, "Your services to the paper have been of such a nature that we are glad to raise your salary to $5 a week."

"That," he says, "was my greatest kick up to the time I submitted a column to a New York newspaper one afternoon and found it on the editorial page the next day as a regular feature."

His first ambition in the newspaper business was to be a cartoonist and throughout his days with the Register he did cartooning on the side. He was made managing editor of the paper at the age of 23 and still thinks this largely due to a determination of the owner to keep him from drawing.

He ran the paper for about six years and then decided to try his luck in a big city.

Had Big Ambitions

"Feeling pretty inflated as a result of my rise in the home town," he says, "I had a conviction that New York was calling me. And not as a cartoonist. And certainly not by any wild imagination as a columnist. I never had given the latter idea a thought. I figured I could run a New York sheet with my eyes shut. And after a few weeks in the editorial room of the Tribune the bosses of that paper must have concluded this was exactly what I was doing.

"As a possible managing editor I did not cause even a ripple. In fact nobody on the copy desk knew I was there until I got tired. Lost in a great city, the outlook seemed dismal, but I was lucky enough to wander into the old Globe office one day when it was hard up for help. I got a job copy reading at $40 a week, which was much less than I had been earning in the old home town. It was all very galling to my pride. Suddenly one afternoon, noticing that the paper had no columnist, I decided to try filling the hole. I wrote a column kidding the news of the day and placed it on the desk of George T. Hughes, the city editor, where he would find it later on. I had only a vague hope he would do more than to toss it into the basket.

How Column Started

"When the Globe came out the next day the column appeared on the editorial page. Oh boy!. It was suggested that I do one daily at space rates. I leaped at the opening, in fact leap is not the verb."

Anyhow, after a few months during which he did the column as a side issue to is job as a copy reader, he was hired as a full time column conductor. Syndication followed. When the Globe was sold Phillips went to the World, but an injunction suit stopped him, and it was held that under a contract his column must go to the New York Sun in which paper Phillips has been doing his stuff ever since.

His forte is kidding the news. In these troubled days more than ever does his humorous slant on world news have a wide appeal, and he keeps it up to the minute year in and year out.

Phillips has done considerable writing for the theater and radio and has turned out two books in the last few months, "On White or Rye," a collection of columns and "The Private Papers of Private Purkey." The latter consists of the letters of a draftee to his folks at home and is among the best selling books in the country.

His hobby is boating to which he devotes all his spare time except that taken up in trying out new hair tonics.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Method of Treatment

One of the most philosophical, by which I mean wisest, and most mature medical books of our time is "The Art of Treatment," by Dr. William R. Huston. I keep a copy permanently on my book case shelves. Other textbooks come and go on those shelves, but that and a very few others stay year after year. I take it down in my contemplative and relaxed moods and always find it interesting and thought provoking.

The average patient goes to the doctor and demands—"What will I take for this?"—expecting the answer to be (1) a small box of pills which he takes three times a day; he has some idea that after he swallows the pill it explodes slowly inside him right at the seat of the disease and when enough explosions have occurred he is cured. Or (2) a list of foods he must not eat and when he has not eaten them long enough the disease is purged and he is a new man and he may go out and seek whatever he wishes to devour. Or (3) a course of baths and massage. Or (4) a temporary change of climate. Or (5) extra vitamins.

Well, consider as a contrast to that conception, one of Dr. Houston's headings:

Diseases which impose a limitation upon life as a Condition of Treatment.

Ouch! that hurts. Nobody wants to impose a limitation on his life or activities. But you see it is a "Condition of Treatment." If you want to be comfortable, if you want to give the disease the least chance, you will have to rearrange your habits. Nature is very imperious sometimes. That is one of her requirements.

The conditions that Dr. Houston lists as demanding a limitation of life as the necessary of treatment are: obesity, heart disease, angina pectoris, hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure, chronic tuberculosis, chronic bronchitis and old age.

Another group is that of "patients who are to be treated chiefly by nursing care." Here are listed most of the common disorders such as colds, influenza, acute fevers, measles, most of the diseases of the nervous system, such as nervous breakdowns and states of exhaustion.

Then there are the diseases in which the treatment is purely tentative and experimental. What is good for one patient may not work on another and vice versa. So here the personal equation of the doctor is paramount. A doctor who has a treatment in which he has complete confidence is the best one to go to. You never can judge the treatment by what the patients say about it. Half of them are wildly enthusiastic and say—"He cured me when everybody else failed;" and half say—"The treatment is a fake and doesn't do any good at all." In this group is listed arthritis, asthma, allergic disorders, neuralgias and muscular rheumatism, some skin disease—such as psoriasis, eczema dermatitis and ringworm—and those diseases in which the diagnosis is uncertain.

You see the diseases that can be cured by a specific, in which the doctor can answer definitely to the question—"What shall I do for this?" by giving a single simple remedy, are in the minority. They include the infections for which the sulfonamides, or penicillin or antitoxins, or serums can be given, those treated by a specific diet as in diabetes, and some disorders remedied by surgery.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

THERE was a distinct leer on Shumway's face as he made his reference to what he knew about the old beach shack, but I was on my guard, and asked him no question concerning his meaning. Instead, I gestured to the brown shingled house in front of which he had drawn up the car.

"Don't you think you had better go in and inquire about your rug, if that is what you came down here to do?" I asked.

Ugly Look

He started visibly, and for a second something ugly looked out of his eyes.

"It don't really matter whether I do or not," he said. "My old woman ain't in no hurry. But that guard might take it into his head to ask if I really did come in here, so I might as well mosey along."

He started toward the gate enclosing the little yard around the house, then turned back to me.

"If you feel like walking over there," he said, gesturing to the shack, "and you figure you won't get into any trouble, that's the shack your friends came out of this morning when they walked over here and asked me to take 'em to your house. Leastwise, I think they come from it."

"How interesting!" I said coolly, although I found that I had to exert a mighty effort to keep my voice from trembling.

"I don't think I'll bother to walk over," I said carelessly. "And I am afraid I must ask you to hurry with your errand. We ought to be starting back within a few minutes. We'll probably be stopped on the way back, too."

Goes Up Path

"That's no dream," he said with a growl in his voice. Then he went hurriedly up the path, and I leaned forward in my seat, watching the panorama on the beach, fixing it in my memory so that I could repeat every detail to Hugh when I got back to the farm.

I could make but one thing of it. There was no intensive search going on around this spot from which Shumway said he had first seen Hugh and Lee Chow. Some men were digging; others appeared to be ransacking the shack. I would not have been surprised to see them tearing it to pieces. For what or for whom were they searching?

I did not dare to follow the fantastic conjectures which came flocking into my brain. But I was sure that Hugh and Lee Chow knew the answer to my question, and that Shumway, while not knowing the truth, had a hook of suspicion hovering over it, a dangerous hook, and one with which I could not deal. I must act warily where the blackmailing taxi-driver was concerned, and get my conjectures concerning him into Hugh's hands as soon as possible.

Watched Tensely

I kept on watching the beach scene tensely, but keeping one eye on the door of the brown cottage through which Shumway had gone. When I saw it opening, I quickly leaned back in my seat, and when Shumway came up to the car, I was sitting quietly, even listlessly, with no appearance of curiosity.

He glanced at me sharply, then climbed to the driver's seat of the car.

"Any of the guards come over?" he asked.

"No. I saw no one."

"Ready to go?"

"Oh, yes. I'd like to get home as quickly as I can without speeding. There's something I've forgotten, to which I must attend."

"Suits me," he said, and swung the car back for the return journey.

Stopped

It was a repetition of the first trip. We were stopped several times, and then waved on again as Shumway showed the card which the first guardsman had given him. One thing I noted. There was no let-up in the thorough search of cars which was going on. Every car was stopped and searched except those, like ours, which already had gone through the experience.

Shumway spoke only once on the way back, and something in his voice told me that he was utterly at sea as to how much I knew, or guessed, about my visitors.

"This is the biggest show I've ever seen put on out here," he said, "and there isn't a soul who has an idea what it's about except the guardsmen, and they're keeping their mouths shut in seven languages."

He hesitated, then looking into the mirror—I knew so that he could see my face—said bluntly:

"They say around here you're an awful smart woman. Sure you haven't any ideas on the subject?"

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, April 6

ALTHOUGH, according to astral testimonies, there are prospects of obstacles, delays, disappointments and dogged impediments, affecting all personal as well as business relations, yet there is also a sign that the mentality, vision, energy and spirit of initiative are keyed up to high tempo which may vanquish all frustrating circumstances. Aggressive attack of all corrective or thwarting situations, with determination, skill and the "will to win" should attain enduring and sound returns. But guard possessions and healthy, also sustain amicable relations in domestic, social or love contacts.

Those whose birthday it is are admonished to summon all their exceptional forces and faculties to meet possible reversals, delays disappointments or other forms of defeat or frustration, seeming to threaten the acceptance of opportunities for progress and security. The mind and energies may be keyed to cleverness and initiative, which should be directed against the opposing forces strenuously and practically, but cheerfully and with good grace.

A child born on this day should have excellent abilities, stimulated faculties and forces, which should aggressively vanquish tenacious obstacles in life.

FOR TAO'S SAKE, SAVE ME-- AIEE!
STICK CLOSE TOGETHER, YOU TWO.. I HAVE A HUNCH WE AREN'T ALONE
OH, OOH!
A FEMININE HAND APPEARS OUT OF NOWHERE ---AND CLUTCHES THE TERROR-PARALYZED ELVIN.

YOU LIKE LIDDLE DENZER, FLIGHT HUFFICUR LEE?
WHY-AH, YEAH! SHE'S OKAY!.... I GUESS THAT'S THE END OF HER NUMBER!
THE HEAD MAN IS LEAVING... IF I CAN GO NOW, I'D LIKE TO GET SOME SLEEP... THANKS FOR THE PARTY, CHIEF SINGH!
HURRAY! D'BOY SHOW YOU TO ROOM!
FOR A MINUTE I T'INK DIS FLIGHT HUFFICUR LEE KNOWS BUMMA...BUT SHE DUN'T FLICKUM D'EYE
MEN ARE STUPID... HE WAS PROBABLY TOO FULL OF FOOD TO SEE THAT SHE IS A YANKEE GIRL WEARING BODY PAINT...BUT ON THE OTHER HAND...
SPEAK ENGLISH, SPORT!...IF NOT, DO THESE RUPEES SPEAK WHATEVER IT IS YOU SPEAK?
HMM-M-M!

I WILL GO OVERSEAS. I'LL JUST BEG THE C.O. TO SEND ME
MISS JONES, MAY I PRESENT PRIVATE MAPES? HOW DO YOU DO?
DO YOU THINK THERE'S ANY LIKELIHOOD OF YOUR BEING SENT OVERSEAS?
WELL!
-NOT AS MUCH AS I THOUGHT THERE WAS SOMETHING OLD SUMP'N NEW-- SUMP'N BORROWED SOMETHING BLUE.

THE COLONEL IS "OLD" ENOUGH--MAKE HIM BUY YOU A "NEW" DIAMOND ENGAGEMENT RING, SOPHIE
WHY, I NEVER THOUGHT OF THAT--HE GAVE ME ONE FOR OUR FIRST WEDDING
MAKE HIM GIVE YOU ONE THIS TIME, TOO--AN EXPENSIVE ONE
COLONEL HOOFER, MARCH YOURSELF OUT AND BUY ME AN ENGAGEMENT RING! HOW LUCKY THAT CASPER REMINDED ME OF IT!
WHY CAN'T YOU MIND YOUR OWN BUSINESS?
YOU CAN'T TAKE YOUR MONEY WITH YOU! LET IT GIVE SOMEBODY A BIT OF HAPPINESS!

LOOK, ZERO, WE CAUGHT UP TO THAT PAINTER AN' THE MULE WE SAW YESTERDAY.
FISH FOR SALE
I'M GLAD THAT ROPE IS NICE AN' STRONG 'CAUSE THAT MULE LOOKS AS IF HE'S TERRIBLE MAD.
HOWDY! DO YOU WANNA BITE OF MY APPLE?
GEE, THANKS FOR ASKIN' ME BUT ITS KINDA SMALL-- GWAN AN' TAKE A BIG BITE, WE GOTTA WHOLE BARREL OF APPLES ON THE BOAT - YAMS, TOO.
